Capt. Peter Kalis of Victoria at Skidegate's wheel

Change in orders for lifetime thrill

HALIFAX (CP)—Despite rough weather and two ice jams, the Canadian Coast Guard vessel Skidegate arrived in Sydney, N.S., on schedule from Tuktoyaktuk, N.W.T., Monday, becoming one of the smallest vessels ever to navigate the Northwest Passage.

Not much bigger than a large yacht, the Skidegate is 87 feet long and displaces 200 tons. By comparison, the first vessel ever to navigate the passage, the RCMP vessel St. Roch, was 104 feet long and displaced 323 tons.

However, the Skidegate's two 340-horsepower engines vastly outpower the single 300-horsepower engine of the old St. Roch.

The Skidegate does not have ice-breaking capabilities, but like most northern service vessels her hull is strengthened to withstand ice.

The Skidegate was sent to Sydney to be used as a training vessel at the Coast Guard College.

Built in Vancouver in 1964, she had been in mothballs at Tuktoyaktuk since 1972 after being replaced as a buoy tender because her draft was too deep for the shallow waters of the Mackenzie River basin.

Captain Peter Kalis was called up temporarily from his command of the coast guard cutter Rider in Victoria to command the Skidegate during the voyage.

With him was a crew of two instructors and six students from the college, and a cook and a steward from Vancouver.

"We had about everything you could think of thrown at us," Kalis said in a telephone interview from Sydney, adding that there were especially heavy seas as the Skidegate came through the homestretch Monday afternoon.

But the little vessel behaved without fault through the trip. Ice conditions in later August are at their mildest.

The Skidegate left Tuktoyaktuk Aug. 8, originally planning to sail by the westward route over the tip of Alaska and through the Panama Canal. However, at Herschel Island, where the Skidegate took fuel and supplies from two other coast guard ships, the route was blocked by ice.

"We waited for two days for ice conditions to improve, then we got orders from headquarters in Ottawa to proceed east as conditions were improving there," Kalis said.

The Skidegate sailed to Cambridge Bay to pick up charts of the Northwest Passage. On Aug. 21 she reached Spence Bay on the Boothia Peninsula, where she veered north for the passage through Franklin Strait and the route's most northerly point, Barrow Strait.

The next day she encountered heavy ice about 40 miles south of the Tasmanian Islands, and had to wait for a passage to open.

Reaching Barrow Strait, she encountered more ice.

"At the western entrance of Barrow Strait was a large ice cube, and this was hard, solid ice—what we call multi-year ice," Kalis said.

"There is no way of breaking through that, not even with an icebreaker. The field was moving into the strait with the current, so we sneaked through along the shore between the shore and the icefield, and got into the Barrow Strait."

There was some ice in the strait, but the Skidegate navigated it in two hours. From there the sailing was ice-free.

Kalis, who has previously sailed in the Arctic but had never before traversed the Northwest Passage, was asked if he would make the trip again.

"Yes I would because it has been a great experience—a once-in-a-lifetime experience."

He will return to Victoria to resume command of the Rider.

Gasoline up but no pump panic

By NANCY BROWN
Colonist Reporter

A 5.1 cents-a-gallon increase in the price of gasoline went into effect in B.C. at midnight, but there was little sign in Victoria that motorists were trying to beat the deadline by filling car tanks.

In contrast to the situation earlier this year when there was a 10 cents a gallon increase, only a few motorists were out at the gas pumps Tuesday night to buy gasoline at the old prices.

New prices were posted at 75 cents a gallon for regular gasoline and 80 cents a gallon for premium, although some service stations are charging more than that amount.

The increase consists of 4.5 cents on the added cost of crude oil, and .6 cents added to federal sales taxes.

The increases result from the federal government permitting increases in the price of crude oil to $8 a barrel from $6.50. The increases went into effect Aug. 15, but British Columbia was one of the provinces imposing a temporary freeze.

Robert Dunsmuir, Victoria president of the Automotive Retailers Association, said the majority of service station dealers have signed contracts with oil companies to limit the price they charge for gasoline. The contracts allow the station operators only eight-cents-a-gallon profit — five cents markup on the gasoline, and a three-cent-a-gallon reduction on wholesale prices from oil companies.

In exchange they agree to abide by maximum price levels set by the oil companies.

"I pay a man $30 a day to pump gasoline — at eight cents a gallon profit, do you know how much gas he has to pump to make wages? It means he has to fill 240 cars, and its impossible to handle that much business," Dunsmuir said.

Dunsmuir said that while the line is being held fairly well on gasoline prices, service station operators have been forced to take up the slack elsewhere in order to stay in business.

"Labor has gone up from $16 an hour to $26 an hour. I don't know how working people can afford to drive."

Meanwhile a provincial government freeze on the price of home heating oil will continue until the end of the year. The B.C. Energy Commission will review home oil heating prices in January.

Central bank rate up to 9%

Tighter credit—again

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada announced Tuesday that it is increasing its lending rate by three-quarters of a per-centage point to 9 per cent effective today — a signal of tighter credit.

Bank Governor Gerald Bouey said the central bank is determined to avoid "excessively rapid monetary expansion," which would add fuel to inflation.

The move follows recent increases in interest rates throughout money markets. Bouey said the new central rate was needed to "re-establish a more satisfactory relationship" between the two levels.

The central bank lending rate is the rate charged chartered banks for loans. The retail banks rarely borrow from the central bank but its rate is seen as an indicator of federal views on economy policy.

Higher rates tend to restrict credit generally — everything from mortgages to consumer credit — while lower rates encourage it.

The new rate is the highest since the historic peak of 9¼ per cent between July and November, 1974. The bank rate has been steady at 8¼ per cent since Jan. 13, when it dropped from 8¾ per cent. The size of the increase is bigger than in the past.

Bouey
. . . inflation control first

Bouey said recent increases on the private money markets result from current and projected demands for credit from public and private borrowers.

With the rate of monetary expansion already high, he said the bank was not prepared to relieve the pressure on interest rates in the private money market by further increasing the money supply.

"It continues to be the Bank of Canada's policy to provide for sufficient monetary growth to support the renewed expansion of economic activity in Canada, but not so much as to jeopardize the country's chances of achieving a moderation, over time, of the present rate of inflation.

"The control of inflation is a prerequisite for sustained economic growth."

Investment from U.S. still rising

OTTAWA (UPI) — Foreign investment in Canada totalled $32.8 billion at the end of 1973, up 11 per cent from $29.5 billion the year before, statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

The federal agency said substantial profit gains by foreign-owned companies resulted in a buildup in retained earnings — the amount remaining after payment of dividends, which is usually earmarked for investment.

The largest foreign direct investor was the United States with $26.1 billion, followed by the United Kingdom at $3.2 billion.

Statistics Canada said direct investment owned by U.S. residents was largest in manufacturing, followed by petroleum and natural gas and mining and smelting.

Air force in command —almost—of its destiny

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Armed Forces formally launched its new air command here Tuesday, a move that Defence Minister James Richardson said should help the airmen to achieve greater identity.

The minister said, however, the air command — which complements the mobile command in Montreal for soldiers and the maritime command in Halifax for sailors — does not signal a return to the three separate armed services.

"There's no doubt that unification was a wise step," Richardson said at a news conference after a brief, low-key ceremony at CFB Winnipeg. "When we look at operational services, we have a reason to achieve identity."

Richardson said there was no retreat from the unification program launched in the mid-60s, when Paul Hellyer was defence minister.

Angolan refugees pour south

Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service

JOHANNESBURG — Angolan refugees are continuing to pour into South and Southwest Africa. In Capetown, a Red Cross official estimated "more than 20,000" Angolans already have fled into Southwest or South Africa to escape the bitter factional war in their country among its three black liberation armies. Many refugees are black.

Meanwhile, the South African government chartered a Chinese luxury liner to sealift 3,000 refugees to Lisbon.

Some 200 Angolan refugees in 60 vehicles crossed into Southwest Africa at the mouth of the Cunene River the other day, and headed south inland along the Skeleton Coast. "They must have been desperate to choose that way," a South African said.

Congress will okay Sinai snoops—Ford

Colonist Wire Services

The Ford administration in the United States predicted Tuesday that the U.S. Congress will approve stationing American technicians in the Sinai desert under terms of the new Israeli-Egyptian accord.

Egyptian officials prepared to leave for Geneva, Switzerland, for the formal signing of the pact, and Israeli officials sought its approval by the Knesset.

A White House spokesman gave advance notification to 29 congressional leaders Monday before the Israeli-Egyptian agreement was made public and most of them indicated their approval. He said Ford expects Congress approval "within a couple of weeks."

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin won the endorsements of his Labor party and a major coalition partner Tuesday for an interim peace agreement with Egypt, paving the way for its approval in the Knesset today.

Israeli officials said the agreement will be signed in Geneva Thursday.

In Tel Aviv, the United Nations Emergency Force, a thin human shield between the Israeli and Egyptian armies, began plans Tuesday to expand its Sinai desert buffer zone and co-ordinate with United States civilian technicians.

Four thousand UNEF troops—850 of them Canadians — have been sweltering in the desert since Kissinger's last Sinai agreement 20 months ago, manning a narrow strip between Israeli and Egyptian guns near the Suez canal.

Under the new accord initialled Monday, Israel agreed to pull back its front and hand over 1,520 square miles to the UN force for a vastly expanded buffer zone.

Meanwhile a joyful State Secretary Henry Kissinger Tuesday won Saudi Arabian approval of his new Israel-Egypt peace pact and flew to Jordan to do the same with an unhappy King Hussein.

A U.S. official said the endorsement from Saudi Arabia's King Khaled at Taif earlier in the day was of extreme importance. Kissinger has been worried that the oil-rich state, a political as well as a financial power in the Arab

B.C. endorses College of Physicians action

Immigrant doctors forced north

Most immigrant doctors will have to practise in remote areas of the province for at least five years before they can settle in the area of their choice, the registrar of the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons said Tuesday.

Dr. William McClure said in Vancouver that new Canadian immigrants who wish to practise in B.C. are being granted temporary registrations restricting them to practice in areas north of Ashcroft.

When the immigrants are granted Canadian citizenship, after a minimum of five years, they will be able to apply for full registration, he said in an interview.

The new regulations, adopted by the college in May, are in line with federal government policy to restrict immigration of foreign doctors.

But the federal government left it up to the provinces to send doctors to areas that need them.

McClure said that so far as he knows B.C. is the only province that has done so.

Since the new rules apply only to doctors who have applied to the college since May, the policy is only beginning to take effect. McClure said so far reaction seems to be positive.

"People applying don't seem to think that it's unfair or asking too much," he said.

The B.C. target area is a cross-shaped area extending from Ashcroft through Prince George to the Yukon and from Prince Rupert east to Alberta.

This area has only one-third as many doctors per capita as the densely populated southern centres and there is a particular shortage of some specialties like psychiatry, McClure said.

One hope is that if doctors spend longer in remote communities they will be more likely to put down roots and stay permanently, he said.

McClure said that rare exceptions will be made for certain specialists and university researchers who can not be suitably placed in the northern areas.

"We wouldn't send a neurosurgeon to practise in McBride, for instance . . . the specialist should be able to be self-sufficient," he said.

Health Minister Dennis Cocke said in Victoria he welcomed the move by the college and said it would go a long way toward solving Bri-

Save China, Taiwan call

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — Nationalist China's Premier Chiang Ching-kuo called on the 800 million people on the communist mainland to rise up against their Maoist government and promised that Taiwan would send both sea and air support.

Chiang said that "it is time now for us to unite together, to rise up and to save ourselves and our country."

Doctors must go north

tish Columbia's serious doctor shortage in remote areas.

"It may seem arbitrary," he said, "but it will better serve the needs of the province. Since the Lower Mainland and southern Vancouver Island are already over-doctored, I don't think it will do any harm at all."

Cocke said the move by the college would not solve all the problems in remote communities.

"They can place the restrictions on doctors wishing to practise in B.C. because they are the licensing authority," he said. "But they can't stop that doctor from emigrating to another province after just a few weeks in a small B.C. community. There's no way they can stop him from moving from McBride to Toronto if that's what he wants to do. The only way we can curb that is to get other jurisdictions to agree to the B.C. system."

Cocke said he didn't think the decision of the college infringed in any way on the rights of a doctor wishing to immigrate to B.C.

"After all, the college is the licensing body and the would-be immigrant will know what the conditions are before he leaves home. If he doesn't like the conditions he doesn't have to come."

Cocke said other professional groups might consider attaching similar conditions to immigrants coming to the west, but that he did not think it likely.

"It could happen with dentists," he said. "But the situation isn't quite as serious there and we don't get that many immigrant dentists."

The minister said offers of incentives to doctors living and practising in the north had been tried in the past "but they don't necessarily work."

THE YOUNG ONES are back in school today, which is good and bad. Good for harrassed mothers, bad for those who honestly believe the youngsters will be receiving a first class education.

Ou present school system does not allow for first class education and if you choose not to believe this, ask a dedicated teacher and prepare yourself for the telling blow.

I had a chat with a teacher last week and he left little room for doubt as to the sloppiness of the system. He points out there is no check on the students and, he claims, no check on the abilities of the teachers, which is an even greater sin than the first.

The common knocks are that our children are ill-prepared for university through a lack of spelling and English grammar. These knocks are refuted from time to time, but only half-heartedly. My teacher friend told me of a test given to grade nine students in one class last spring — a spelling test that 64 per cent failed.

As for the checks on teachers, he points out it is now possible to get the necessary teaching certificate by simply writing to the department of education and that one will be forthcoming. No interviews, no checks, just a certificate in the mail.

He is disenchanted with his own profession and he makes one final, telling observation. He notes that 63 per cent of the students enrolled at one of the top private day schools are children of teachers in the public school system. The message is clear — they want their children to get better schooling than is available in the public system today . . .

ALLOW me a paragraph or two to extoll the accomplishments of the Victoria Bate fastball team — the champions of Canada and how they deserve that honor!

They brought sporting glory to our city and they might well bring further glory when they travel to New Zealand for the World championships next January.

And this bring up a point. Stan Kern, the man mountain who instills fear in batters with his close-shave pitching, doesn't like to fly. He made the junket to Oshawa by car and that's a lot of driving. So the thought comes forth that Stan had better start rowing now in order to get to New Zealand by January. You can bet one thing, the big fella will get there one way or another — he wouldn't miss a shot at the World championship regardless of the extra hassle it will entail for him . . .

LEN GUY is the boss of the B.C. Federation of Labor. He is from the troglodyte school of labor relations and a few cuts below the standard of many of the labor leaders in this province. His Labor Day message gave little or no hint that he is ready to join the 20th century.

"The trade union movement is grimly determined to see wages catch up and stay in front of increases in the cost of living.

"Workers would not be seeking such high wage rates if the inflation rate was lower."

Mr. Guy misses two major points.

First, that those excessively high wage demands and settlements have, without any question, helped fuel the inflation he so roundly criticizes.

Second, those high wage demands and settlements are in the process of pricing British Columbia products right out of the international marketplace. Kill the goose, Mr. Guy, and all the high wage settlements won't be worth the paper they're written on . . .

THE annual hamburger poll has been taken at the PNE and this political barometer, which is supposedly more accurate than all the professional polls, shows that if an election was held in this province now, Bill Bennett would supplant David Barrett as premier.

Here's now it went. More people bought Bennett-burgers (45.8 per cent) than bought Barrett-burgers (39.8 per cent).

The Anderson-burger was purchased by 8.9 per cent of the customers and the Wallace-burger was gobbled up by a mere 5.5 per cent . . .

Your good health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like your opinion on how much I should weigh. I'm a girl, 13, 5 feet, 4 inches tall. I have large bones, and I weigh 124 pounds. My measurements are 33-24-33. I think I should reduce.

Please tell me how much I should weigh. — Miss K.S.

Normal weight for a girl your age and height would be about 115 pounds, give or take a pound or two. This is while wearing normal indoor clothing and without shoes.

Don't invent any weight problems.

You need not worry too much about a few pounds over the so-called norms. A lot can depend on your stage of physical development. Girls tend to add some weight during this period, and often in odd places. In most instances, it all evens out within a couple of years.

Unless there is some real health-related reason for dieting, I do not recommend it for young folks like yourself. More important for you than the fad diet you mention in your letter is adequate exercise, sleep, and perhaps elimination of those infernal snacks. These steps should assist nature in producing the desired results.

Financial havoc termed political problem

WASHINGTON (CP) — An extremely strong consensus is emerging among the 127 countries of the International Monetary Fund that a major political thrust now is needed to complete reform of the world financial system, says Canadian Finance Minister John Turner.

Addressing the annual meeting of the IMF and the World Bank Tuesday, Turner said it is imperative that the restructuring of the system be completed quickly so that governments can turn their full attention to problems creating havoc in world trade — excessive inflation and balance of payments crisis.

Earlier Tuesday, President Ford told the meeting, which ends Friday, that each country must make its own decisions about its economy rather than rely on the actions of others to solve its problems.

There has been sharp criticism of the United States, West Germany and Japan at the meeting, which opened Monday, for not stimulating their economies enought to end the international recession.

Treasury Secretary William Simon, speaking before Ford, rejected outright a recommendation by Johannes Witteveen, director of the IMF, that the United States should take further reflationary measures. Witteveen also urged Japan and West Germany to take similar steps.

"My concern is not that we have done enough," Simon said. "My concern is that we have done too much."

Denis Healey, Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, emphasized that recovery must be led by the U.S., West Germany and Japan. At the IMF meeting he praised the U.S. for taking recovery action but said action by other countries would have no significant results until mid-1976. He later told reporters that Japan has been the slowest to undertake appropriate measures.

Nuclear scientist acclaims Candu

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's Candu nuclear reactor got a pat on the back Tuesday from Edward Teller, a nuclear scientist best known as the father of the hydrogen bomb.

"It's the best system anywhere and I'm trying to persuade high up people in the United States to adopt it because it conserves nuclear fuels," he said in an inteview.

In a freewheeling talk to about 200 people earlier, Teller said the spread of nuclear weapons is inevitable because the nuclear materials in reactors can be easily converted to bombs.

"All we can do is delay it somewhat, but that poses problems. The costs of energy are rising and Canada and the U.S. have an obligation to allow needy countries this alternate power source," he said.

Teller also spoke against objections raised against the use of nuclear power by consumer advocates and took several potshots at them.

"Ralph Nader was right about the seat belt, so he must be right about everything," he said.

Teller dismissed the problem of nuclear pollution, saying that nuclear reactors are "over designed" for safety and "are the cleanest pieces of apparatus anybody has ever produced."

The Candu system shoots down the claim that uranium will soon be depleted, he says. He said the machine uses thorium, which is available in lower grade ores and only uses up about 15 per cent of its fuel.

"With Candu we can stretch our uranium stocks to last 10 times as long as was predicted before. There will be no uranium shortage within the next century," he predicted.

Canada's investors shy

Inventors seeking funding elsewhere

OTTAWA (CP)—American takeover of much of Canada's innovative industry can be blamed on the cautiousness of Canadian investors, says a study prepared for the federal science ministry.

The study, released Tuesday, says lack of Canadian funds for the development of innovative companies has led many inventors to look to the U.S. for support and development.

"When the Canadian industrial economy was emerging, instead of borrowing funds externally as the Americans did and retaining equity control, we did the reverse, allowing others to assume the risk of ownership, and, in many cases, loaned them the funds to exploit our own opportunities," the report says.

Written by Toronto consultant Robert Grasley, the study is intended to "initiate a dialogue with interested parties so that whatever policies are ultimately recommended to the government will accurately respond to Canada's needs in this area."

Grasley, at the end of the study, The Availability of Risk Capital for Technological Innovation and Invention in Canada, has 18 recommendations to improve the lot of the Canadian inventor. Included are:

- Formation of an organization called Innovation Canada to provide financial support, encouragement and guidance to inventors and innovators;
- Establishment of a system of annual awards for Canadian inventors;
- Amendment of tax laws to make them similar to U.S. laws which make high risk appealing to investors.

Grasley, who interviewed more than 500 people involved in inventing and investing, says Canadian investors now are caught in a vicious circle.

Large corporations can get the funds for expansion, but are afraid of investing in new inventions because they have a lot to lose.

Small companies are more innovative but are not able to raise the money to fund new inventions to a marketable stage.

The study says the high risk investment scene in Canada has been growing steadily worse and money is tight.

A survey of venture capital available in 1971 showed that the 17 largest lenders had approximately $64 million available.

Three years later, in 1974, the same firms reported only $3.35 million available for venture capital.

The Insurance Corporation of British Columbia regrets that normal service was disrupted during the strike.

But now we're back in full operation. Here is how vehicle owners can get their claim settled as conveniently and as quickly as possible.

OPERATION CATCH-UP

AN APPOINTMENT SYSTEM.

An appointment system has been developed to catch up on the outstanding claims and to make it as easy as possible for vehicle owners. Here's how the appointment system works:

If your vehicle has been involved in an accident during or after the strike, simply complete this appointment form. Then mail it directly to the Claims Office where it is most convenient for you to go to make your claim. We'll phone you as soon as possible to give you an appointment at a time and day you would prefer.

If you have already mailed in your accident details during the strike, it is still necessary that you contact us using this form.

If your vehicle has been involved in an accident, but you have no damage to claim, just phone us at 665-2800, in Vancouver, to report the details. No appointment is necessary.

INJURIES.

Passengers or pedestrians who have sustained an injury in an accident will be contacted by the Corporation immediately after the owner of the vehicle has reported the accident to a Claims Office. These injured people need not request an appointment.

Vehicle owners who were involved in an accident before the strike and have received a claim number but the claim has not been settled will be contacted by an adjuster as soon as possible. There is no need to request a further appointment at a Claims Office.

NON-DRIVEABLE VEHICLES.

Once your completed appointment form has been received at a Claims Office, we will phone you and make special arrangements to estimate your vehicle damage.

REPAIRED VEHICLES.

If you have had your vehicle repaired during the strike, and paid either the deductible portion of your insurance or the entire amount, use this form to make an appointment. We will phone you on how to proceed with your claim.

BROKEN GLASS.

You don't have to make an appointment if the only damage is cracked or broken glass. We have made special arrangements with glass replacement companies throughout the province. Go to the company of your choice and have the broken glass replaced. Be sure to take along your Owner's Certificate.

We have made special provisions for vehicle owners who do not wish to make an appointment. Two Claims Offices on the lower mainland will operate without appointments. One is at 4399 Wayburne Drive in Burnaby and the other is at 406 S.W. Marine Drive in Vancouver. These Claims Offices will be open from 8:45 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, on a no-appointment, first come, first served basis. These Claims Offices will open for business on Friday, September 5th.

RICHARD BOWER — Publisher and Editor-in-Chief

Harbor development

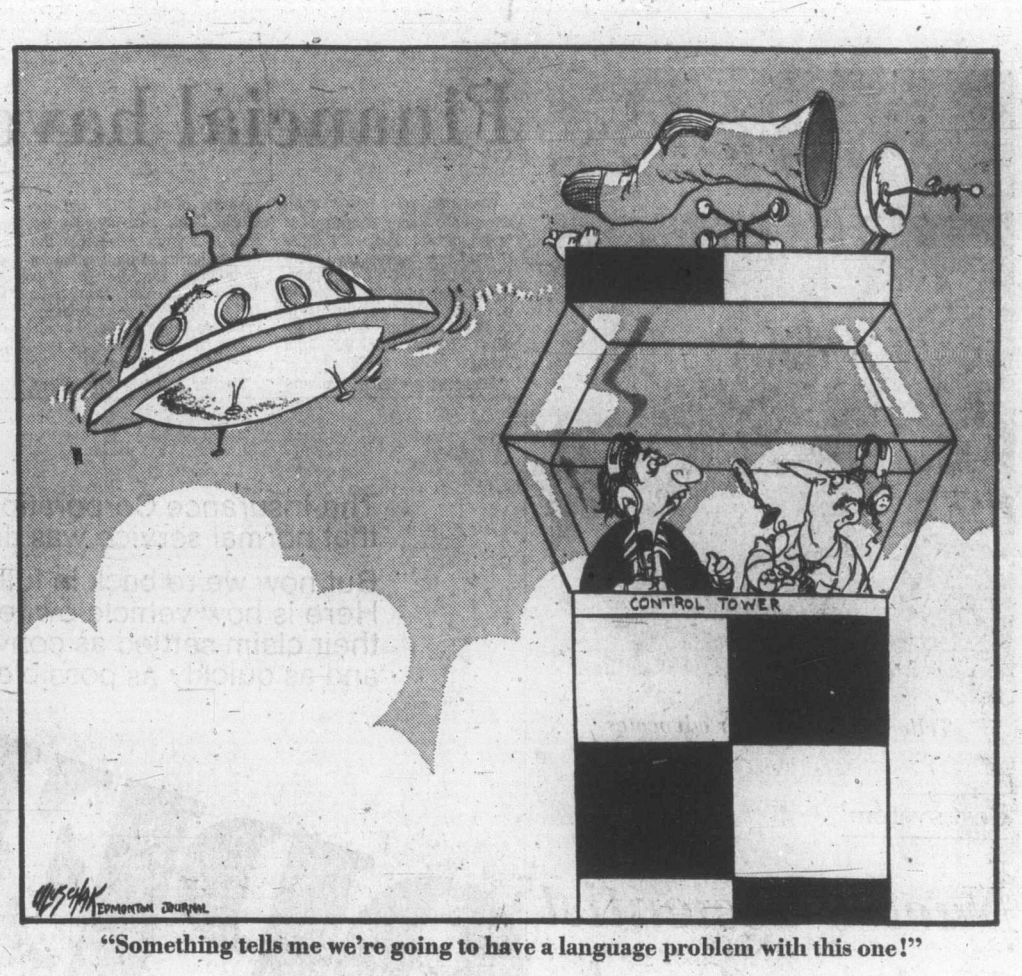

IN HIS SERIES of articles on Mayor Peter Pollen, Colonist reporter Hubert Beyer wrote that the Inner Harbor remains undeveloped: "The city's grand schemes, including a $10,000 plan by Vancouver architect Arthur Erickson, have all gone down the drain. The provincial government now owns most of the vacant Inner Harbor land. What the government has done — the lower causeway in front of The Empress — has been achieved after much pressure by the city. Gasoline tanks are still detracting from the appearance of the Inner Harbor and no long-range plan has been made for their relocation. But Pollen has laid the groundwork for future mayors and councils to realize those aims . . ."

True enough. But Mayor Pollen has not been alone in laying groundwork. The question that must disturb Victorians now, and should disturb all British Columbians living in municipalities, is whose groundwork will prevail. Will Victorians through their mayor and council have any direction in Inner Harbor development? Will the Capital Improvement District Commission, in which Victoria at least is represented, do the job for which it was created? Or will the new Crown Development Corporation, otherwise known as Bob Williams Incorporated, go ahead with Inner Harbor changes as it (or he) sees fit, and without regard for local laws or wishes?

The summer may have dulled some memories of the legislation approved over the strong objections of the Opposition which gave Resources Minister Williams extraordinary powers, and which has resulted in the Crown Development Corporation being established to operate the Princess Marguerite and the Prince George and to control the development of Crown land in the Inner Harbor and on Whistler Mountain. Actually Mr. Williams' company can do almost anything he wants, on a far wider scale.

It should be noted that when the minister announced the formation of the thoughtlessly named Crown Development Corporation — it can't be called the CDC because the Canadian Development Corporation was first on the scene — he gave no indication of readiness to consult with local government in its operations. In the Whistler and Victoria Inner Harbor development, he said, individual contractors and developers would be invited to submit plans; he wouldn't give details of what he had in mind, but there would be public participation in the development proposals.

Will Victoria city council be permitted to influence the re-shaping of the harbor surroundings? Will the CIDC, which for coming on 20 years has been in charge of provincial capital beautification, be kept in the picture? Or will Bob Williams Incorporated rule supreme? The answers should not be long in coming. Dismayingly, the government's sandwich shop at the end of the Causeway may be a portent.

"Something tells me we're going to have a language problem with this one!"

Unions and strikes

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS on the growth and strength of unions in Canada are contained in a federal labor department report just released.

The department makes an annual survey, and last year covered nearly 19,000 work establishments with 20 or more employees. About 1,143,000 so-called "white collar" or office staff, 1,779,656 non-office employees, and 424,124 workers in other categories were included.

It may come as a surprise, with the number of office job walk-offs in new contract negotiating that have been taking place, that of the total number of workers in this group only 33 per cent are covered by union contracts.

There is a simple explanation, though.

Most of the office labor strife has been in the public services, and while they are included in the 33 per cent picture, their proportion of unionized employees is much larger than the over-all figure.

The report duly notes that, as of October, 1974, 93 per cent of office workers, 98 per cent of non-office workers and 95 per cent of local employees in public administration had their working conditions governed by collective agreements.

The success of union organizing in the public sector has been such that it wouldn't be surprising if it is taken to the extreme with a move on the armed forces of the country.

Old soldiers might laugh at the idea, but there is talk in the U.S. of such action. The American Federation of Government Employees, a member of the AFL-CIO, is said to be hard at work on research plans to seek union rights for Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine and Coast Guard forces.

The AFGE, bargaining agent for 300,000 government workers, is not expected to reach any formal decision on the matter until after its annual convention a year from now, but tentative plans call for the pursuit of bargaining rights in a number of areas:

- As a bargaining or lobbying agent for military personnel with the Senate and House of Representatives on such matters as ages, health and insurance programs, and retirement;
- At disciplinary hearings, with union representation for servicemen in matters of dress standards (haircuts), and barracks behavior (lights out bed-checks).

Well, at least there's no mention of "the right to strike" which has been granted so many public service employees in Canada, including many in what are considered to be essential services. The U.S. government thus far has withheld the strike weapon from all federal employees, although there is legislation in the works which may allow postal workers to catch up with their Canadian counterparts with legal work stoppages.

But that's another sorry story.

Ottawa Offbeat

Lobbying on 'the hill'

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

There's an old industry here that's taking on new life.

It's the fast-growing, increasingly profitable and ever-controversial enterprise of lobbying.

The greater the government grows, the larger looms the lobby.

It's a shadow industry — that's what makes it controversial—busy in the background as an intelligence service sifting information about government plans and policies, and active as a political force influencing government programs.

There is one branch of it that makes no pretence of doing anything but representing the particular interests of business, industrial, trade, professional and labor organizations.

The capital's directory lists nearly 200 of these, from the Academy of Medicine to the Union of National Defence Employees.

Then there is another branch that isn't quite so open about its activities.

These people, scorning the vulgar label of lobbyists, prefer to have themselves known as consultants.

Most of them modestly insist that not only do they make no effort to shape government policy, but that they lack real influence.

But they don't lack "insider information" — having themselves been on the inside of government — and so can afford to confine themselves profitably to dispensing "advice" to those seeking guidance through the federal corridors of power.

Controversial though most lobbyists and consultants customarily concede they are, there is nothing, absolutely nothing illegal about their activities.

The consultants are the more interesting of the two species.

And oddly, the government itself, perhaps inadvertently, or just possibly influenced by some senior bureaucrats, has been helping to set them up in business.

The leg-up from working for the government to working on the government comes through early public service retirement.

It doesn't make sense — at least not business sense — and it could happen only in government, but for the senior bureaucrat it's been made more profitable to retire earlier than later.

This anomaly in executive public service pensions surfaced earlier this year when two of the topmost bureaucrats, former deputy finance minister Simon Reisman and former industry trade and commerce depty, James Grandy — and a few other bureaucratic biggies — retired well before the customary age of 65.

In doing so, they drew a richer pensions entitlement than they would have received had they stayed on to normal retirement age.

So there's a premium for premature retirement.

In reality a double premium — one from the government in the bigger pension — and the other in time.

For to retire early is to have more working years ahead, and with an "insider's knowledge" of the workings of government a greater attraction as a consultant to those who want to know what's happening before it happens.

So the new office towers that overshadow Parliament Hill now have names on the doors of former men of federal power who in the recent past occupied the senior bureaucratic office suites.

There are as many as two dozen of them, former deputy ministers, ex-crown corporation bosses, retired defence department brass, and even a one-time cabinet minister or two.

It's the only way to go, out early with a fat premature retirement pension, and in as a consultant with all that insider instinct for what's likely to be coming down the government pipe with who pushing it for what reasons.

So there's a rumble now that into the conflict of interest guidelines there likely will be inserted a clause prohibiting boss bureaucrats from setting up shop before a year or maybe two or three after well-heeled retirement.

I Beg to Differ

Canadian life can't be all bad

By FRANK LOWE from Montreal

The most encouraging news report I have read in a long time went like this:

"In the old Hollywood movies, the suave leading man always knew just how to take the cork out of the champagne bottle.

"However, Canadians seem to lack this know-how and increasing numbers are ending up with the stopper in their face . . . It is quite a serious problem, says the federal consumer affairs department."

Now, it may sound somewhat cruel of me to call a news item such as this "encouraging". After all, a lot of Canadians are apparently getting their faces bashed in by exploding champagne corks.

But I look at it this way: if exploding champagne corks are presenting Canadians with a "serious problem", then things can't be quite as gloomy as they seem. I mean, each day it is the same old story in the newspapers — inflation up again, employment down again.

Yet if there are increasing numbers of Canadians having trouble opening champagne bottles, life can't be all bad. In fact, in some places life must be a rather cheery affair.

After all, one doesn't open champagne bottles at a funeral. The bubbly is usually brought out on a festive occasion.

At least, that is what I have learned. In fact, I learned this early in life in Nova Scotia — but because of a legend, not through observation. In my Nova Scotia home there was never any champagne. To tell the truth, anybody caught guzzling any more than a couple of glasses of home-made spruce beer on a hot day was looked upon with suspicion.

But the legend was all right. It told of the time the mighty schooner Bluenose had once again proved she was queen of the North Atlantic and her crew brought her into port for a celebration. All the wives were invited aboard and some local money-bags thought he would make a real occasion of it by treating everybody to champagne.

The party was decorous enough for about the first half-hour. Then, or so the legend went, one of the wives jumped onto the table top, kicked over the champagne bottles and shouted:

"Enough of this ginger ale — bring on the rum."

The first time I had a chance to actually know that champagne was served on festive occasions was when the great German battleship Bismark was finally sunk. One of the ships which had taken part in the action came into port, and I climbed aboard to interview her skipper.

There were a lot of holes, big ones, too, in his battle cruiser but he was all smiles and asked me, a mere reporter, to join him in demolishing a bottle of champagne. The champagne tasted good, but I had some difficulty writing the story later.

For one of my friends, the first bottle of champagne he ever ordered in a restaurant was cause for double jubilation. He and his wife were making their first tour of France together when they stopped at a restaurant that had been recommended to them.

It had been a good day, and as it was a special occasion, they had a wonderful meal. The one jarring note was the waiter — he obviously considered them peasants and made them know it. But my friend was determined not to let this spoil things. So he ordered a bottle of champagne.

The supercilious waiter brought the bottle. Then, when he was opening it the cork got out of control — just as is apparently happening in so many Canadian homes today — and flew up and hit him on the nose.

He promptly began to drip blood from his formerly snooty snoot.

My friend said he never enjoyed anything so much. Both the champagne and the champagne accident cheered him up immensely, he said.

So perhaps you can now understand why I found that news item encouraging. It isn't that I want Canadians to suffer bloody noses when opening champagne bottles. It is simply that I think it is nice to know that more and more Canadians can afford the stuff.

Canada Wide Feature Service

Wanted elsewhere

From the Winnipeg Free Press

A Canadian speaking at the opening of a mine in an African country said. "We are here to obey the laws of your country, to operate the mine for the benefit of your people, and to make a profit. It is our money that has opened this mine. Money only goes where it is wanted. If it encounters roadblocks or restrictions it will scurry away to somewhere else."

This African country needed money from outside to develop its potential wealth. Without money the resources would remain underground and continue to be useless as they have been over countless centuries.

Canadian money went to this country because it was wanted.

A great deal of money is needed in Canada to explore and develop minerals. Without money, the natural resources, although potentially valuable, will contribute no more to Canadians today than they have contributed to the native Indians and Eskimos over the past thousand years.

But is money really "wanted" in Canada? Are not the federal governments creating roadblocks and placing restrictions on the use of money in the mining industry? Resistance to foreign investment, excessive zeal in environment protection, high royalties and taxes, government intervention and red tape are things that make money feel it is not "wanted."

Meanwhile money that a Canadian company could have used to benefit Canada goes to an African country.

Doubts about U.S. recovery

By COLIN CHAPMAN, The London Observer from New York

With so many European hopes pinned on the revival of the American economy it is disquieting to find that there are almost as many doubts about the future on this side of the Atlantic as in Europe.

True, Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has talked about a "broad-based recovery." And all the economic indicators in recent days have produced overwhelming evidence that the economy turned the bend from recession about three months ago.

But with the upturn has come a refuelling of inflation on a sufficient scale to threaten the upturn. The wholesale price index increased in July at an annual rate of 15.3 per cent, mainly because of pressures on farm products. And last month prices were still rising at 7 per cent which the U.S. Treasury's top economist, Sidney Jones, says is "unsatisfactory."

To the British, confronted with an inflation rate more than three times higher, the American situation would be regarded as highly satisfactory. But that is not the way they see it on Wall Street.

Three weeks ago there was the steepest drop in the Dow Averages since May and the consensus among brokers seems to be that the market may fall still farther, as it reflects continued investor anxiety.

"The market is headed due south right now," said one expert. "You have to expect prices to bend not to break," said another.

A number of interrelated doubts explain why Wall Street is apprehensive about the pace of the recovery. The first concerns unemployment, now running at about twice Britain's rate, at 8.4 per cent. Economists say that even if the U.S. economy resumes reasonable growth next year — with real GNP rising by between 6 to 8 per cent — unemployment will still top the 8 per cent mark. This is because the labor force, unlike that in Britain, keeps on growing with school leavers and college graduates outnumbering those who die or retire.

Since March 1.2 million new jobs have been created in the United States, half of them last month alone, but unemployment as a percentage has remained constant in a total work force of 85 million.

Thus, although production is reviving, albeit sluggishly in the key building and car manufacturing industries, unemployment will continue to remain at levels which in any European industrial country would be regarded as socially unacceptable.

This probability in turn is leading to strenuous pressures on the Federal Reserve Board to reflate through increasing the money supply. Two of America's most respected economists, Professors Walter Heller and Arthur Okun, have testified to Congress that if the board increases the money supply sufficiently this will encourage interest rates down, people and business will be able to borrow, production and consumer spending will recover, and unemployment will fall.

Against this is the view of the monetarists that such a course will inevitably lead to a new and rising tide of inflationary expectations.

Optimists believe that even with a slight monetary boost the present burst of price increases will not last. They believe that unemployment will continue to have a dampening effect: they also fear the effects of the huge gulf between what industry could produce and what it is turning out. Undercapacity, though by no means as serious as in Britain, is very high.

But this undercapacity has not stopped leading companies in the steel and aluminum industries from announcing price increases even in the face of reduced demand for their products. These rises will inevitably be passed on to the consumer through the more expensive cars and home appliances.

On top of this come higher food prices and the prospect of more expensive gasoline, both as a result of the federal government's plans to decontrol oil produced domestically and the expected increase this month from the OPEC producers.

A final consideration is the view, said to be prevalent right across the country and not just confined to Manhattan intellectuals, that Americans are sick of the consumer society and planned obsolescence.

Like the British, Americans have taken to growing their own vegetables and developing a greater interest in craft products. For many families there is no longer the overwhelming desire to have "this year's model," whether it be a car or a washing machine. All the statistics show that if Americans have money to spend it is going on leisure, especially travel.

Those who count on a recovery in America to provide a boost to flagging economies across the Atlantic may have to wait some time for their expectations to be fulfilled. It might be a mistake to be too bullish.

Oil for U.S. homes, cars and factories from Alaska's North Slope will flow from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez through 798 miles of gleaming pipe, four feet in diameter, now being laid. The oil will come out of the ground at Prudhoe Bay steaming hot — 185 degrees — and will move through the giant pipe at 7½ miles an hour, at 135 degrees.

It will take 4½ days to slide through the length of the pipe; when full, the pipeline — crossing two mountain ranges, and endless miles of frozen tundra, rivers and streams — will hold almost 9½ million barrels of oil.

At the ice-free port of Valdez the oil will go by tanker to the continental United States.

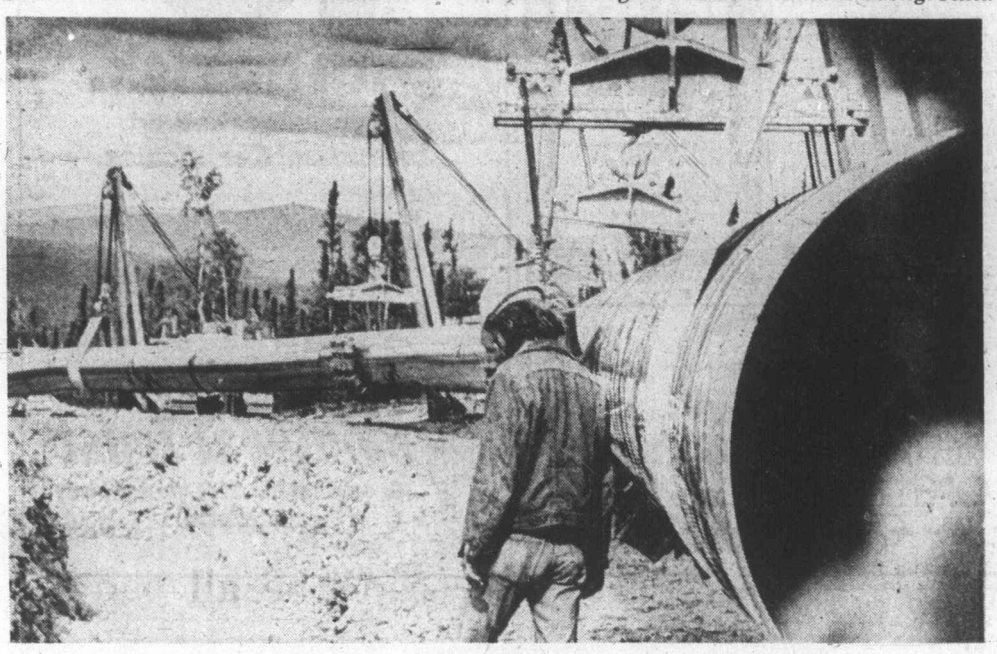

Laying the pipeline is a gigantic task in an icy wilderness for an army of some 18,000 men and women working this summer in almost continual daylight. North of the Yukon the sun will not set until the fall; workmen have built a 360-mile access road of gravel which is the first ever to slice through the emptiness there.

Where the pipe is elevated above the tundra, it will be positioned so that migrating caribou and other animals can either go around it or under it.

The pipe — almost half of which is to be laid by the end of this year — will vary in thickness from just under to just over half an inch.

The first length of pipe was laid on March 27; total laying will cost almost $6 billion.

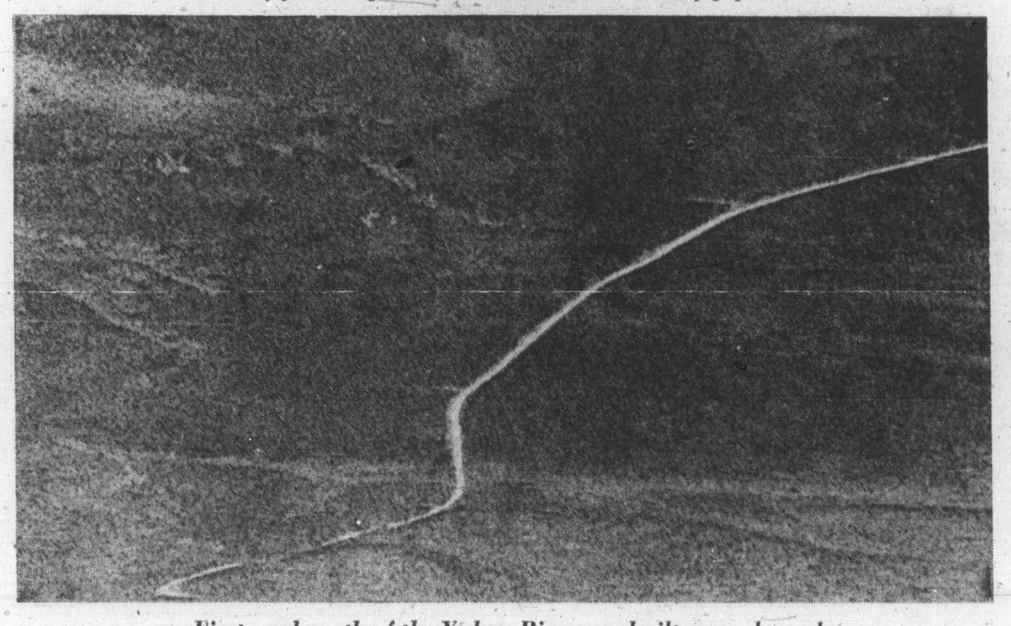

First oil is due to flow late in 1977.

PROVINCIAL COURT

The case against a 25-year-old Burnaby man Tuesday in Victoria Provincial Court at first seemed to have "a sinister aspect," said Judge William Ostler, but the truth turned out to be something else.

Robert Harrison pleaded guilty to a charge of prowling at night, early Saturday outside a senior citizens' housing project in Central Saanich.

Prosecutor Nicholas Lang said a man had been "walking around trying doors and looking in windows." When he tried one door, an elderly male resident opened it and "brought Harrison inside," holding him until police arrived. Lang said Harrison was drunk.

Defence lawyer Bruce McConnan said Harrison worked in New Westminster and came to this area to help his uncle, who lived at the housing project, to move from one residence to another. They started drinking with friends and somehow became separated.

Harrison tested several doors in efforts to find his uncle, who might have returned to his former residence.

McConnan said Harrison was in custody for more than two days while awaiting hearing. Ostler took that into consideration in levying sentence for what turned out to be almost a case of causing a disturbance and fined Harrison $35.

Consumer Services Minister Phyllis Young has appointed Gordon William Hanson as her administrative assistant.

The appointment was confirmed by cabinet at its regular weekly meeting.

Hanson will be paid $19,500 a year.

Karl Richard Bamforth, 17, address not known, pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of possession of small amounts of marijuana and hashish Monday afternoon when police checked him in Bastion Square. He was fined $75 by Ostler for the marijuana count. For the other count, he was given a nominal one-day jail term since he had spent Monday night in jail.

Randall Robert Wright, 18, of 931 Verdier, chose trial by judge and jury on a charge of possession of marijuana Aug. 21 in Central Saanich for the purpose of trafficking. His preliminary hearing was set by Ostler for Oct. 8.

Theft of a jacket worth $6 netted a Victoria man two months in jail where he appeared in Victoria Provincial Court Saturday.

Andrew Thomas James, 33, of 752 Market Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of shoplifting. He was observed Friday by a customer at Field's department store, 1420 Douglas, leaving with the jacket and was apprehended outside.

"There's too much shoplifting going on," said Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre. "We can't have these repeaters."

Prosecutor Barry Mah Ming told the court that James had been convicted two years ago for a similar offence.

St. Jorre refused bail for Peter Michael Downey of Toronto, charged with four counts of forgery.

Downey, 21, elected trial by magistrate without a jury and requested Legal Aid. Arrested Friday on a bus near Sidney, he told the court he was on his way to London, Ont., where he was facing a charge of breaking and entering.

St. Jorre remanded Downey until Tuesday for trial.

LEGISLATURE BRIEFS

New Nanaimo gets $1 million

Nanaimo's expanded municipal boundaries have netted the community an extra $1,001,470 from the provincial treasury.

A grant based ona population increase of 29,455 following amalgamation of several communities into one city, will be paid in three payments of $250,368 with a final payment of $250,366.

Other provincial communities benefitting from increased populations are Trail, Fort Nelson, Fort St. James, Lumby, Montrose, Pouce Coupe and Taylor, with Trail the recipient of the smallest grant.

Trail's population has increased by seven as a result of recent boundary changes. The city will receive $183.88 from the government in four equal payments of $45.97.

A food processing firm, Swan Valley Foods Ltd., has been loaned $2 million toward construction costs of its new plants in Creston and Richmond.

In announcing approval of the loan Tuesday the provincial cabinet noted that to date the company has borrowed $9 million toward plant development in both communities.

The provincial government owns 10 per cent of the company which processes and packs vegetables.

The first loan of $2.5 million was made in April, 1974, from Canada Permanent Trust. A second loan of $2.5 million was made from the same trust company in January, 1975, and third of $2 million in July of this year.

Under terms of the latest loan the government has the option to buy more shares and to appoint a member to the company's board of directors.

A Vancouver book publishing firm has been granted $22,000 by the provincial government to help stave off bankruptcy.

Provincial Secretary Ernest Hall announced the one-time grant to Talonbooks Tuesday.

Hall said the publishing firm, established in 1967, had been facing severe financial difficulties in recent months and was near bankruptcy.

One count in a three-count Victoria charge of common assault against Robert Gerrit Schoeman, 25, of 4202 Billston, was dismissed by Ostler during a trial when the prosecution closed its case without calling evidence on that count.

Two young women testified during the trial of the other counts they struggled with Schoeman at about 2:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Jan. 26 after he picked them up while they hitch-hiked in downtown Victoria. Testimony showed there were no sexual assaults.

The trial was remanded to the defence case, which will continue later this month with the defence case, which will include a motion claiming insufficient evidence on one count as well as other evidence and legal argument.

"We felt swift action was necessary to preserve a 'natural resource' for the playwright, poets and writers of British Columbia," Hall said. He added that the company was "one of the country's most prestigious literary publishers."

The grant was made from B.C. Cultural Program funds.

The provincial cabinet has authorized changes in letters patent of the capital Region District to enable it to acquire, develop, operate and maintain community parks.

The order-in-council approving the move limits the control to Colwood, Langford, Metchosin, View Royal, Sooke, Salt Spring Island and the outer Gulf Islands.

One-half mill per year will be levied taxpayers in the areas concerned to permit a planned community park development program.

Congress 'will okay' snoops

world, would spurn the interim peace settlement the secretary worked out between Israel and Cairo.

Kisinger, seeking Hussein's support, faced the problem of the monarch's anger over the refusal of the Congress to sell him Hawk missiles.

"We have a load off our minds," U.S. officials confided Tuesday night in Jordan, after an afternoon-long session with King Khalid and his brother, Price Fahd, the Saudi premier and the real power in the desert kingdom.

For weeks before the latest Israel-Egypt shuttle began, the best judgment of state department Middle East experts was that in a pinch Fahd would back the more radical claims of Syria rather than the more moderate Egyptians.

In the American estimate, the Egyptians went further toward public acceptance of coexistence with Israel than has any other Arab state. Accordingly, the Americans feared that the Saudis, whose influence is growing in the whole Arab world, radical and conservative, might speak out against the Egyptian concessions.

Instead, officials said, Fahd and the king gave their approval. In the words of Prince Saud bin Faisal, the foreign minister, the deal agreed to in Jerusalem and Alexandria Monday amounted to "a step toward the solution" of the Middle East conflict which "provides" the impetus for further activity in the field."

In the context of known Saudi rigidity when even discussing the existence of Israel, this lukewarm statement sounded in official American ears like a ringing endorsement, and they were quick to press that interpretation on reporters travelling with the Kissinger party.

More to the point, a senior official told the group there is now a hope that Syrian President Hafez Assad — whom Kissinger visits next — can be persuaded to keep his patience in the face of what the more radical Arabs are certain to denounce as an Egyptian act of treason to the anti-Israel cause.

One thing Kissinger can bring Assad is renewed assurance that the Egyptian agreement does not preclude late American efforts to get the Israelis to start negotiating a further withdrawal of forces from the Syrian Golan Heights.

American refusal to guarantee Israeli inaction on this front was an issue of contention between Kissinger and the Israeli leadership throughout the shuttle, and some Israelis remained convinced the Americans had reneged on an earlier promise in this field.

Here in Jordan, the secretary must try to persuade King Hussein that the new agreement in the Middle East can revive hopes of winning congressional approval of the air defence system Jordan wishes to buy from the United States.

A "more rational attitude on Capitol Hill and also from the Israelis and the Israeli lobby is the administration's hope now that the Sinai agreement is reached" is the nub of the message Kissinger is carrying to Hussein.

At issue in the Jordanian air defence sale are 14 batteries of improved Hawk missiles worth $260 million.

Air command reborn but military personnel did regard themselves as soldiers, sailors or airmen.

He said use of naval ranks at sea had been authorized, but he did not think air personnel would welcome the re-introduction of air-type designations. There were no plans at present to consider distinctive uniforms.

"We're not de-unifying the armed forces," he said.

In his formal address, Richardson said the choice of Winnipeg for the air command was partly a tribute to the high standards maintained since the base was used to train pilots of the British Commonwealth for action in the Second World War.

The new command, which takes over air training duties along with functions of the former air defence and air transport commands at North Bay and Trenton, Ont., has a staff of about 300 military and 110 civilian personnel.

Lt.-Gen. William Carr, a 52-year-old native of Grand Bank, Nfld. and RCAF veteran who is in charge of the air command, earlier told reporters, "One of the basic human needs is identity."

But the commander, who is former deputy chief of Canadian defence staff, said he did not think Canada could ever afford to go back to a separate army, navy and air force.

He said each separate service previously had its own medical, dental, purchasing and other support staff. If the services were to revert to separate status, "we'd have to triple the support personnel."

The commander, who received the Winnipeg appointment from defence staff chief Gen. J. A. Dextrase in a parade square ceremony, said the aim since integration has been to develop a flexible type of military personnel.

Carr said the stress on the distinctive roles of airmen, sailors and soldiers "will of course improve morale, but I don't think morale is that bad. You only have to look at how our guys perform in Cyprus and the Middle East. They're outstanding."

The ceremony, with 400 troops on parade on a wind-swept surface near Winnipeg International Airport, was watched by about the same number of officers and other spectators, many of them family members. There was no fly-past.

Carr said later there are some difficulties involved in holding a fly-past so close to a busy airport, but the main reason he recommended against a traditional display of air strength was finances.

"If we were to do it today, why not somewhere else, for some other occasion? We're pretty conscious of the dollar."

Frustrated phoner rings up $28 award

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—A Prince George resident, frustrated by two telephone disconnections for a bill that was paid, has won $28.50 damages and $8 court costs from B.C. Telephone Co.

Peter Luttmer took the company to small debts court and won the award, which B.C. Tel unsuccessfully appealed in county court.

Luttmer said he paid a $27 phone bill a day after the due billing date in August, 1974, after phoning to say he would be paying late.

When the $27 showed on the November bill, Luttmer presented a counter-account for three hours at $7.50 an hour and mileage of 30 miles at 20 cents a mile—for time he had lost from work and travel expenses to and from the telephone office.

TORONTO (CP) — Prices in all major sectors of the Toronto Stock market moved sharply lower Tuesday with gold shares recording their largest losses in more than eight months.

The gold index plunged 24.61 to 313.97, its lowest closed since Nov. 27, 1973. The price of bullion on world markets fell sharply following the decision by the International monetary Fund to sell about 150 million ounces of gold to aid developing nations.

Hawker - Siddeley Canada gained ⅛ to $7⅛. The company has been awarded a $32-million contract to build 80 double-decker rail cars for Ontario's Go Transit commuter line.

Copperfields Mining, which reported lower earnings for the nine months ended June 30, lost seven cents to $1.15.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange, uneasy over New York City's financial difficulties and the latest U.S. budget deficit figures, took a sharp downward swing in light trading Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index fell .74 to 45.55.

The market's slight upward tilt at the outset appeared to step from encouragement over a continue rise in factory orders reported by the U.S. commerce department for July.

But the rally attempt soon yielded to uncertainty over New York City's financial trouble and its potential impact on the markets.

Governor Hugh Carey called the New York state legislature into special session for Thursday, one day before the city's treasury is due to run out of the cash it needs to meet expenses. Carey described the city as "at the edge of a precipice" financially.

Brokers said the market was also depressed by the news that the U.S. federal budget deficit in July swelled to $11.05 billion, the second largest negative reading on record for a calendar month.

Gold stocks encountered selling pressure, following along with the steep drop in London bullion prices that followed agreement by an International Monetary Fund group on a plan for gold sales to aid poor countries.

Canada-Mexico rail route studied

VANCOUVER (CP)— Canadian National Railways is about to embark jointly on a system [illegible] which passengers will be able to buy through tickets between any point on the CN line in Canada to any Amtrack point in the United States, Al Menard, a CN spokesman, said Tuesday.

Menard said the company already has existing agreements with Amtrack to use the CN station here and to have the publicly-owned Canadian railway sell the Amtrack service.

Amtrack has been described as "a quasi-public corporation which receives appropriations from Congress." It is a national railroad passenger corporation set up by Congress primarily to maintain railway passenger service in areas where private railroads were reducing traffic.

The U.S. Department of Transportation announced earlier Tuesday in Washington that it is launching a $100,000 study into the feasibility of inaugurating a 1,500-mile, high-speed passenger-freight rail service which would link Vancouver with Mexico. An interim report on the feasibility of the corridor is to be filed with congress next Jan. 30.

CN tracks would be used north of the border for the system that would use existing tracks south to Tijuana.

Menard said the Burlington Northern Railway of the U.S. actually owns all the track it uses from the U.S. border to the CN station, altough CN has joint running rights on it from nearby New Westminster to the terminal here.

Burlington Northern operates under Canadian Transport Commission rules.

Puget-Chicago oil plan bared

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — An idea for a $1 billion pipeline from the West Coast across Montana to the Twin Cities to prepare for Canada's planned cutoff of crude-oil exports was unveiled Tuesday to state officials.

Michael Curran, board chairman of a Great Falls, Mont., pipeline contracting firm bearing his name, presented the plan.

Curran proposed a pipeline that would stretch 1,500 miles from the Puget Sound area across Washington, Idaho, Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

He said a 36-inch pipeline could move about 800,000 barrels of crude oil daily from Puget Sound — one of the few U.S. ports capable of accommodating the new supertankers — to Minneapolis-St. Paul and on to the Chicago refining area.

Primary goal of the pipeline would be to serve the states most affected when Canada eventually halts its oil exports. The states are Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin, he said, adding they have no other substantial source of crude oil.

Bankruptcy No. 3 in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Terukuni Kaiun (K.K.,) a shipping line suffering from a drastic slump in demand for tankers following the oil crisis, started formal bankruptcy proceedings Tuesday. It was Japan's third major business failure in the last five days.

Other recent bankruptcies involved Kohjin Co., a pulp, textile and real estate firm, and Toho Sangyo Ltd., a trading company.

Gold slides below $150

LONDON (AP)—The price of gold fell in Europe on Tuesday as bullion markets reflected investors' worries over the future of the metal in the world monetary system.

It was the fourth consecutive trading session in London to record a substantial decline and the metal ended the day at $148.75 U.S. an ounce, its lowest level since September, 1974.

It was down from $155.25 late Monday, $159.25 on Friday and $162.05 on Thursday.

One London dealer said active selling was continuing in reaction to the weekend decision by the International Monetary Fund to end the central role of gold as a basis for world currencies and to start by selling off one-sixth of its holdings, or 25 million ounces.

Gold prices also fell in Paris, Frankfurt and Zurich.

CDC share sellout seen

MONTREAL (CP) — Advance orders indicate the Canada Development Corp. (CDC) share issue will be sold out, says John Panneton, eastern Canadian sales manager for Wood Gundy Ltd., one of the share issue's underwriters.

A revised maximum of $125 million was set on the share issue but Panneton said Tuesday in an interview that it could go as high as $150 million.

The record for a Canadian share issue is $125 million set by Bell Canada and Trans-Canada Pipelines Ltd.

The issue probably will not officially go on sale until Friday, when the final prospectus is expected to be filed in Toronto, he said. Sales would be closed about Sept. 15.

(A spokesman at the CDC head office in Vancouver said Tuesday that the underwriters signed the agreement in Toronto on that day and the final prospectus has gone to the Ontario Securities Commission for approval. Submissions to the other commission across the country will follow and he expected that the official sale would begin before Friday.)

U.S. plan supported by Turner

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian Finance Minister John Turner has expressed strong support for new United States proposals, outlined to a special session of the United Nations, for bridging the chasm between the world's rich and poor countries.

He said the U.S. recommendations, prepared by State Secretary Henry Kissinger, represent a "major attempt by the United States to avoid a confrontation in developing a new economic order in the world."

Turner said he was also heartened by President Ford's Tuesday speech to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank in which the president re-affirmed the United States' intention to give the fullest support to both institutions.

Radley spurs Bakers into deciding game

By WILF HURD

Peterborough will be the destination of a flight out of Vancouver International Airport Friday, and the last thing Burnaby Cablevision expected was another game tonight to make the connection.

Victoria McDonalds confounded the predictions Tuesday at Esquimalt Sports Centre, sending the Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League final into a seventh game with a 14-13 overtime victory which had most of the 1350 fans in a perpetual state of cardiac arrest.

Cablevision still holds the home-game advantage with tonight's game at Queens Park, but on a one-shot deal anything can happen. The league, meanwhile, was so confident they arranged flight connections only from Vancouver.

If Victoria goalkeeper Al Radley has any say, they may have to change them. He came up with the performance of his career, blocking 63 shots and 11 in overtime.

It was like two lacrosse games in one. Bakers dominated two periods, checking Burnaby to a standstill and grabbing leads of 4-1 and 10-5.

Radley did the rest. Buoyed by the tough checking in front of him, he came up with a string of clutch saves.

At the other end, McDonalds were riddling Cablevision starter Rich Zecchel. Zecchel eventually pulled himself in disgust at 6:35 at the middle period when Norm Baker scored on a 50-foot shot. Gary Greer came on in relief.

But the tide changed suddenly in the final period. Cablevision came out with a pair of quick goals and eventually climbed to within one when Gerry Cadwallader of the McDonalds was nicked for a disastrous double minor for slashing and follow-through at 6:01.

Dan Wilson and Dan Perreault scored powerplay goals which cut Victoria's lead to 11-10. Tej Labh temporarily restored McDonalds two goal lead at 8:17 with his third of the night, but Burnaby still had the momentum.

They finally tied the score on goals by John Krgovich and Kelly McLenaghen, the latter's goal coming at 15:47 after he had blazed a drive off the crossbar seconds earlier.

At that stage there appeared to be little doubt which club would dominate the overtime session, however Radley had other ideas.

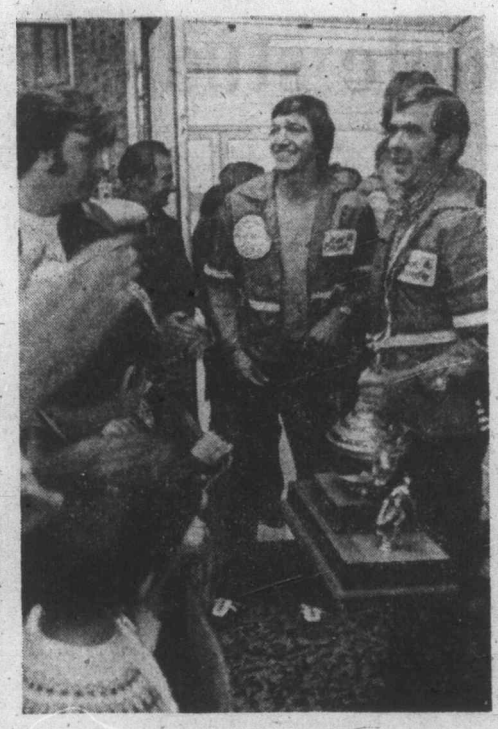

McDonalds struck quickly on Steve Hepburn's breakaway for a 13-12 lead after just 46 seconds, and then Radley took over. He came up with clutch stops on Mike Holden, Derek Dickson, Perreault, and Kelly McLenaghen.

Kevin Alexander took the pressure off with Victoria's 14th goal at 6:49. Burnaby finally solved Radley on Randy Delmonico's drive at 9:25 of the 10-minute period, but Baker regained possession after the faceoff and killed off the remaining time.

McDonalds got three goals each from Labh and Alexander. Baker and Lorry Gloeckner scored twice, while Leigh Hegan, Bob Cool, Cadwallader, and Hepburn scored once.

Kelly McLenaghen and Wilson led Burnaby with three goals each. Ken Sim, Gary Read, Mike McLenaghen, Dickson, Perreault Delmonico, and Krgovich added one goal each.

The winner tonight draws a tough assignment in the Minto Cup final. Peterborough PCO's wrapped up the Ontario Major Junior series 4-1 against Mississauga with its 100th straight victory at home. That record dates back to 1971.

Fans greet champion Bates

Canadian championship trophy in hand, Joe Patterson coach of Victoria Bate Construction and smiling outfielder Reg Underwood are first to be greeted by hometown fans on arrival at Victoria International Airport, Monday afternoon. Bates returned for a deserved rest after winning the Canadian senior "A" softball title. B.C. champions the last five years, Bates won their first national championship by scoring a dramatic come-from-behind, 3-2, victory over defending champion Oshawa Tonys at Oshawa on Saturday. They'll have a short rest and then start preparing for the world championship scheduled to be held in New Zealand in January.

Shamrocks face unenviable task

RICHMOND — There can be no more bad games for Victoria Shamrocks this season.

If the 'Rocks hope to represent the Western Lacrosse Association in the Mann Cup final next week, they must win their next three starts, beginning tonight.

Vancouver Burrards put the Irish in that unenviable position Tuesday by scoring a 16-12 win before about 2300 fans at Richmond Arena to take a 3-1 stranglehold in the best-of-seven final.

Tonight's game is at Esquimalt Sports Centre as a new clock is being installed at Memorial Arena, site of Shamrock home games. Game time is 8 p.m.

If necessary, games will be played Thursday in Richmond and Saturday here to determine the host club for the best-of-three national final against Brampton Excelsiors, the Ontario Lacrosse Association champions.

Burrards, playing without the services of roughneck Ward Sanderson, jumped to a 7-5 lead Tuesday and increased the margin to 13-8 after 40 minutes.

Shamrocks had trouble scoring in the latter half of the second period and early third period, going without a goal for 17 minutes and 12 seconds.

Led by junior-recruit Rico Bellusci, Burrards took full command in that stretch and eased to victory.

Bellusci, up from the Richmond Roadrunners, scored five goals and drew four assists and former Coquitlam Adanac Dick Crompton, called up from senior "B" ranks for the playoffs, added four scoring shots. And veteran Gordie Frederickson scored three times.

Rookie Mike Walsh was the top sniper for Victoria, scoring three goals.

The game was a mild affair compared to Saturday's brawl-shortened affair at Memorial Arena. Referees were forced to abandon that game with 33 seconds to play when fans stormed the penalty box to shower Sanderson with litter and lacrosse balls. Burrard players crossed the floor to defend their teammate.

The big forward had cut Victoria's Mike Beaulac in a vicious attack.

League-commissioner Colin Cruickshank, in attendance Saturday, suspended Sanderson for one game for "becoming involved in an unnecessary fight," and fined the Burrards $100 for inability to control their bench.

Picked for Games

High-jumper Debbie Brill of the University of Victoria is one of 26 athletes named to a Canadian track and field team to compete in the World Student Athletic Games in Rome next month if financial arrangements can be made. Governments of Ontario and Quebec have agreed to help the 18 students from those provinces and B.C. and Saskatchewan have been asked to do the same for their representatives. The federal government, which allocated $100,000 in aid to send a team to Moscow in 1973, has declined help this time.

Red Sox end win drought with Fisk back in action

If Carlton Fisk was in the army he would have been awarded three purple hearts and retired from front line duty by now.

But the injury-prone catcher is a vital part of the Boston Red Sox so they keep patching him up and sending him back to do battle in the baseball wars.

Fisk returned to the lineup for the first time in 10 days Tuesday and drove in three runs with a pair of singles helping Boston end a losing streak at three games with a 7-4 victory over New York Yankees in an American League game at Boston.

Fisk's latest injury, a split finger suffered Aug. 23, isn't as serious as his previous two, but its helping to keep alive his reputation for being injury prone.

He played two full seasons for the Red Sox, suffered a broken hand in spring training last season and didn't play until April 26. He had only been in the lineup a little more than two months when he suffered torn knee ligaments. He had to undergo surgery and was lost to the Red Sox from June 1974 to June 1975.

If Fisk can finish the season without further injury, Boston might be able to maintain their lead over Baltimore Orioles which now stands at six games.

Fisk hit a bases-loaded single to cap a four-run rally in the third inning and provided another run with a single in the fifth inning.

Baltimore, split a doubleheader with Cleveland Indians, winning the opener, 3-2, but losing the nightcap, 2-1, when Rico Carty hit a two-out home run in the eighth inning.

Baltimore opens a two-game series at Boston today.

In the National League, John Lemaster belted an inside-the-park home run in his first major-league at bat helping San Francisco Giants to a 7-3 win over Los Angeles Dodgers. Lemaster is the 43rd major-league player to hit a home run in his first at bat and the second player ato do it this season.

In weekend highlights:

Tom Seaver became the first 20-game winner this season and set a major-league strikeout record while pitching New York Mets to a 3-0 win over Pittsburgh Pirates. Seaver, who has won six straight games, struck out 10 batters, boosting his season's total to 204 and making him the first pitcher to strike out 200 or more batters in eight consecutive seasons. He struck out 205 in his sophomore season, 1968, and followed with 208, 283, 289, 249, 251 and 201 strike out seasons.

Bob Gibson, the only other pitcher to strike out 200 or more batters in eight seasons, was honored by St. Louis Cardinals Monday. The Cardinals held a "Bob Gibson Day" for the 39-year-old veteran, who is retiring at the end of the season, his 17th. Gibson struck out 200 or more every season from 1962 to 1970, except 1967.

Gibson's day drew some of the limelight from a record-breaking performance by veteran Lou Brock. The speedy Cardinal stole two bases Monday helping the Cardinals to a 5-3 win over Cincinnati Reds and boosting his seasons total to 51. He is the first major-leaguer to steal 50 or more bases in 11 straight seasons. Brock now has 803 steals, only 89 off the all-time record set by the late Ty Cobb, who played for Detroit Tigers from 1905 and 1928.

Touring Vikings taste different way of life

Alarm is staring down the barrel of a machine gun wielded by a poker-faced guard in a seething Uruguayan stadium.

Alarm, a near-riot, the sound of terrorist bombing, severe colds, and a bout of dysentery were just part of the tour for the University of Victoria Vikings who arrived home Monday after six exhibition rugby matches in Argentina and Uruguay. They wound up with a 3-3 record.

Vikings completed the tour Wednesday with their most impressive victory, a 12-4 victory over the Uruguayan national team before a crowd in excess of 5000 in Montevideo.

Jim Wenman and Ken Wilke each scored a try in the defensive struggle, while player-coach Al Rees booted both converts. The win was preceded by a 34-12 victory over the Uruguayan nationtl 'B' side before 2500 spectators.

It was in that game that the Vikings had their most anxious moment on the tour. When a brief scuffle broke out among players on the pitch, fans spilled out on to the field.

At that juncture police and machine-gun toting guards ringed the field, but fortunately the skirmish broke up without major incident.

"The referee warned both teams that there could be shooting if there were any more fights," Rees explained from his home Tuesday. "It was probably the best deterrent of all", he added wryly.

Dysentery, probably caused by drinking unpasteurized milk, as well as a cold epidemic hampered UVic on the four-game Buenos Aires segment of the tour.

The team arrived in the midst of a South American winter and "we were succeptible to colds, living in such close quarters", Rees explained. "some of our younger players never really recovered", he added.

The club compiled a 1-3 record with losses to Belgrano, San Isidro, and Sanitarias Obras, and a victory in a return match against San Isidro. All games were played in the Argentinian captial.

Probably the most sobering moment on the tour came when a bistro-cafe the club frequented was bombed by anti-Peron terrorists and scant two hours after teammembers had left. Two people were killed in the blast.

The obvious highlight of the tour was the victory over the Uruguay national team which came amid the country's national day celebrations.

"It has to be a superb effort for a club team to defeat a national side", Rees explained "and it was gratifying after the bad start to the tour."

The flight home consumed the better portion of three days and a foul-up in travel connections resulted in their arrival being delayed by a day. "But everyone agreed it was a tremendous cultural experience", Rees concluded.

Vikings are now off until Sept. 9 when they play Stranmiller College of Ireland in an exhibition match.

Cougar pieces falling into place for Ginnell

By STAN COOPER

With training camp less than a week away, the pieces are rapidly falling into place for Victoria Cougars.

The Western Canada Hockey League club has acquired the services of an outstanding scorer and manager-coach Pat Ginnell expects to have an answer today on the status of rightwinger Jeff McDill, who wants to move here from Flin Flon Bombers.

Ginnell said Tuesday he has signed 17-year-old rightwinger Perry Schnaar, a standout with Kelowna Buckaroos of the B.C. Junior Hockey League last season, for the upcoming campaign.

A product of the Burnaby minor hockey program, Schnaar scored a league-high 64 goals and assisted on 50 others in 66 games, the fourth-highest points total in the league.

Schnaar will arrive here Friday and will be on the ice at Juan de Fuca Arena on Monday when Cougars open the first half of their training camp. The team will move to Memorial Arena on Sept. 15.

Ginnell believes about 80 players will start camp and he's counting on McDill being with the club.

The 18-year-old McDill, who played two seasons with Flin Flon, has requested a trade to the Cougars and has enrolled at University of Victoria.

Cougas have offered several players, cash and a portion of any draft money from professional clubs.

"Bombers will make a decision today and I believe our offer will be accepted," Ginnell said.

Should Bombers disagree, league-president Ed Chynoweth of Saskatoon will be called in to mediate the negotiations.

McDill saw action in 46 games last season, scoring 22 goals and drawing 44 assists for the last-place Bombers. He suffered a torn knee cartilage early in the season and didn't return to action until after Christmas.

Ginnell will also be making a decision this week on a coach for Nanaimo Clippers, the Cougar affiliate in the BCJHL.

Three candidates are in the running for the position — Larry McNabb of Nanaimo, Dave Woodley of Victoria and Don Berry of Vancouver.

Ginnell will decide by Friday as he wants the new coach to assist him at training camp.

Clippers open their season on Sept. 26 while the Cougars play their first game on Oct. 4, when Calgary Centennials visit Memorial Arena.

Morgan sizzles to record 58 at Cedar Hill

"It was the best round of golf I've ever seen."

That's what Uplands pro Brian Carbery had to say about John Morgan's record-breaking seven-under-par 58 Sunday in the fourth annual CFAX-Metro Toyota open golf tournament at Cedar Hill Golf Club.

Morgan, playing in a foursome with Carbery, Don Billsborough of Uplands and Sid Dahl of Vancouver, carded a 36-hole total of 125 and defeated amateur Bob Beauchemin of Gorge Vale in a playoff to win the pro-am tournament and pick up $700 in prize money.

A Victorian, who competes on the Canadian pro tour, Morgan was tied for 35th place after shooting an opening round 67 and was five strokes behind leaders Bob Panasiuk of Windsor and Terry Wiens of Vancouver.

Panasiuk, the leading money winner on the CPGA tour, finished third with a 62-64—126 while Wiens blew to a 69 Sunday and finished in a six-way tie for 16th with 131.

Morgan credited his putting for making the difference between a good and record-breaking round and it was his putting that gave him the playoff victory over Beauchemin, who had fired a 60 on Sunday.

On the first playoff hole Morgan canned a 15-foot putt for a birdie and the championship.

It was Morgan's ninth one putt of the day and his ninth birdie.

Morgan, whose best previous round at Cedar Hill was a 62, birdied the first three holes, and the seventh, ninth, 10th, 11th and 13th and took his only bogey on the 18th hole.

The old course record of 59 was shared by Bill Wakeham of Cowichan, the 1973 winner of the tournament, and John Kindred of Florida.

Wakeham was in this year's field of 227 and picked up $156 for his 130, which put him in a tie for 10th with pros Tom Whittle of Vancouver, Walter Owens of Illinois, B.C. Open champion Dave Barr of Kelowna and amateurs Brian Gandy of Cedar Hill and Ron Bell of Nanaimo.

Gaylord Burrows of South Africa won third-place pro money of $375 with a 127, while Reg Clarkson of Vancouver carded 127 for second-place in the amateur event and Cec Ferguson of Gorge Vale was third low amateur with 128.

Professionals Frank Fowler of Calgary and Beau Baugh of Florida carded 128s and won $312 each, while CPGA champion Bill Tape of Woodbridge, Ontario shot 129 and picked up $250.

Rich McDowall of Gregarah won the handicap trophy by scoring a 36-hole net total of 117 and then defeating Jim Ferguson of Golf Services in a playoff.

Jamie McGregor and George Barnes of Cedar Hill tied for third with 118 and the Cedar Hill trio of Ray Saxon, Dave Rands and Jack Anderson were next at 119.

The tournamen's other big prize winner was John Dempsey of Cedar Hill. He put his tee shot six inches from the flag on the 120-yard 17th hole and won the use of a car for one year.

Lancaster and Wilkinson engineer thrilling wins

Veteran quarterbacks are hard to beat.

Ron Lancaster and Tom Wilkinson proved that Monday in Canadian Football League games at Regina and Calgary which were both decided in the final few minutes of play.

Lancaster completed a nine-yard touchdown toss to Steve Mazurak with less than three minutes remaining to give Saskatchewan Roughriders a 27-23 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers. And Wilkinson connected on a 17-yard scoring strike with only two seconds showing on the clock to lead Edmonton Eskimos to a 35-31 decision over the Stampeders in Calgary.

The victories kept Saskatchewan and Edmonton in a first-place deadlock in the Western Conference and Eskimos enjoy a game in hand.

Lancaster's experience and a stubborn Saskatchewan defence sent Winnipeg to defeat despite Winnipeg's statistical margin.

Bombers dominated most of the game, chalking up 25 first downs and 428 yards in net offence compared to Saskatchewan's 17 first downs and 365 yards.

The third-place Bombers held a 23-20 edge with 7:21 remaining and stalled a Saskatchewan comeback until about the 12-minute mark. Then Lancaster started the winning march from the Saskatchewan 36-yard line.

Completing passes of 16, 22 and 14 yards to Tom Campana, Lancaster moved the yard-sticks three times before Mazurak's touchdown reception, a diving catch in the Edmonton end zone.

It was the second outstanding catch for the Canadian receiver, who had set up a George Reed touchdown with a 54-yar dreception in the first half.

Campana also scored a touchdown, returning a punt 78 yards in the first quarter.

In Calgary, Wilkinson was forced into service after starter Bruce Lemmerman injured a wrist in the third quarter.

Despite playing with badly-bruised ribs, Wilkinson managed a touchdown pass to Don Warrington early in the fourth quarter and capped a sensational last-minute rally with the winning toss to John Konihowski.

The pass ruined a tenacious effort by the fourth-place Stampeders, who took the lead less than a minute earlier when Rick Galbos gathered in his second touchdown pass of the day from quarterback Joe Pisarcik.

Wilkinson started the final series on the Edmonton 35-yard line, completing passes to George McGowan and Tyrone Walls. The tobacco-chewing veteran completed 10 of 16 passes for 172 yards.

The Edmonton defence also played a major part in the victory, holding Willie Burden — the CFL's leading rusher — to below 100 yards for only the second time this season. Burden led all rushers, with 93 yards on 16 carries, and also caught four passes for 27 yards.

Ticats trim Argos as kicker off mark

HAMILTON — Zenon Andrusyshyn couldn't find the range Monday and Hamilton Tiger-Cats took advantage to score a 20-11 Canadian Football League win over the sputtering Toronto Argonauts.

The premier kicker in the CFL, Andrusyshyn missed on five field-goal attempts and managed only four singles and a conversion on rookie Al Charuk's touchdown. Andrusyshun has accounted for 64 of Toronto's 110 points this season.

Hamilton's largest crowd of the season, 27,104, saw the Toronto defence hold the Tiger-Cats in the second half but by then Hamilton had scored 20 points.

Quarterback Jerry Keeling threw touchdown passes to Lawrie Skolrood and Garney Henley and Ian Sunter converted both and booted two field goals.

The Hamilton defence contributed its share, sacking Toronto-quarterback Mike Rae for a total of 50 yards.

Hamilton and Toronto each have four points but the Tiger-Cats have a game in hand in the tight Eastern Football Conference race.

Betting records set on Exhibition Park holiday card

VANCOUVER — Holiday race-goers wagered $1,146,108 at Exhibition Park Monday — the fourth $1 million day in the track's history and surpassing by nearly $33,000 the previous record of $1,113,467 set on closing day last year.

And the $129,362 bet on the feature S. W. Randall Plate Handicap was $7,926 more than last year's race, the record until Monday.

Haslam waiting for date with Allison

Bobby Allison is coming to Western Speedway, Roy Haslam is waiting and Roy Smith, Tony Johnson and Ray Bertwhistle probably wish they were.

All five drivers were winners on the Labor Day holiday weekend but all drive in different classes of competition and Haslam is the only one of the four Victoria drivers who will have a chance to test his mettle against Allison.

One of the top NASCAR drivers of all time, Allison is scheduled to drive Victoria-owner Dick Midgley's 1974 Chevelle in the Canada 200 open super-stock race Saturday at Western Speedway.

Haslam, the Carling open super-stock points leader, will drive his 65 Chevelle in the 200. But Smith, Johnson and Bertwhistle don't drive in the open super-stock class and unless they borrow cars won't be in the race.

Smith drove his super-modified to victory in the Billy Foster Memorial race Sunday at Western Speedway, while Monday at the Speedway, Johnson, won the super-stock main event and Bertwhistle won the claimer main event.

Meanwhile on Monday Allison won the prestigious Southern 500 at Darlington, South Carolina.

Haslam's victory came in a 50-lap open super-stock race Sunday at Vernon.
straight in the Billy Foster straight in the Billy Goster Memorial classic and it gave him a 68-point lead in the Washington Racing Association standings.

The 50-lap feature was delayed by a first-lap mishap. Cliff Hucul of Prince George lost a wheel when the axle broke on his modified. He spun out hitting Mac MacTaggart of Tacoma and Jerry Sneva of Spokane. There were no injuries but all three cars were forced out of the race.

George Robertson took the lead on the restart, but Smith passed him on the 12th lap and was never in trouble the rest of the way.

In Monday's super-stock race, Johnson took the lead from Mike Barteaux on the fourth lap and remained in front to the checkered flag.

England's XI battles to save test match

LONDON (AP) — England, battling grimly to save the fourth cricket test match against Australia, crawled to 333 for four wickets Tuesday and were only eight runs behind.

England, who were 341 runs behind on the first innings and had to follow on, reached 333 for four before bad light ended play an hour early.

One more day is left.

It was a slow day's cricket. England moved from 179 to 333, scoring 154 runs in five hours. And Australia could get only three wickets all day.

Dennis Lillee took all three.

He dismissed John Edrich, who missed another test century by only four runs, Ravid Steele, who batted defiantly for 66, and Graham Roope, who took four hours over 77.

Lillee's figures were three wickets for 55 in 35 overs.

Next games: Sunday — Blue Bombers vs. Meralomas, Empire Stadium; North Shore vs. VICTORIA, Royal Athletic Park.

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Meralomas are lacking their usual offence power this season but they're still strong on defence.

The defending champions stayed two points behind first-place Renfrew Trojans in the Big Four Junior Football Conference with a 4-0 triumph over North Shore Cougars Monday at Empire Stadium.

Unbeaten Renfrew picked up its fourth victory Sunday, defeating Vancouver Blue Bombers, 17-3, at Swangaard Stadium.

Meralomas offence has been suffering since starting quarterback Tom Reimer was injured in the second week of the season but the defence has allowed an average of only six points per game.

Meralomas scored 53 points the one game they had Reimer, but have scored only 43 points in the three games since his injury.

First tour win for Iverson

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Don Iverson fired a two-under par 69 in the final round of the B.C. open golf tournament Monday and won his first Professional Golfers' Association tour championship with a 72-hole score of 274, 10 under par.

Jim Colbert and Australia's David Graham, playing in the final threesome, tied for second place, one stroke back.

Colbert and Graham, who each had a chance to force a playoff with a birdie on the 18th, finished with 68s.

Terry Diehl followed with 276 after his last round 66.

Next, at 277, were Hubert Green, the 1973 B.C. champion and Jerry McGee and Jim Wiechers. McGee shot a 66 and Green and Wiechers had 67s.

With his card signed, Iverson stood in the scorer's tent and watched Colbert and Graham fire their second shots toward the 18th green. Colbert's ball landed in the right rough and Graham's landed 20 feet from the cup. Colbert chipped on and settled for a par. Graham studied his putt, stroked and missed, and Iverson rejoiced with the victory, worth $35,000 in the $175,000 event.

Iverson, 29, of LaCrosse, Wis., birdied the first and third holes and bogeyed the seventh, making the turn in one-under par 36.

He picked up successive birdies on the next three holes, bogeyed the 13th and played in in par.

Second - and third - round leader Butch Baird, who teed off nine-under-par and two shots ahead of Iverson, faltered on the back nine after going out in par 37 and turned in a 74 for 278. That put him in a tie with Sam Snead, who posted a 67.

Defending champion Richie Karl closed with a 72 for 287.

George Knudson of Toronto and Dan Halldorson of Brandon, the only Canadians to make the cut, finished at 288 and 290, respectively.

The tournament is named in honor of the comic strip B.C.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Island chess players walk off with best showing ever

By RAY KERR
Colonist Chess Writer

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Island chess players had one of their finest moments at the conclusion of Labor Day Open tournament here during the weekend.

Although there were fewer than a dozen Islanders among the 85 entries at Sunset Community Centre in south Vancouver, they won two major classifications and nine prizes in all — Vancouver Island's best showing in a major tournament since chess caught on in a big way about six years ago.

The 85-player entry field, too, was one of the biggest in B.C. history, only surpassed in weekend competitions by B.C. Open of two years ago in Vancouver. That one had 105 entries but its prize fund was the same as the Labor Day Open — $1,000.

The tournament was significant in another way — B.C.'s No. 1 player, grandmaster Duncan Suttles of Vancouver, was soundly trounced by 19-year-old Burnaby student Bob Chow. It was Suttles' first loss in local tournaments in more than three years.

However, Suttles showed his class by winning his final two games in the three-day, six-round tournament and finishing in a four-way tie for first place in the championship section. Tied with him, all with 5-1 records, were Chow, 21-year-old Vancouverite Jonathan Berry and the dean of B.C. chess, 59-year-old Elod Macskasy of Vancouver.

B.C. champion Bruce Harper, 20, of Vancouver, came fifth with 4½-1½, after being crushed in the last round by Suttles, while Victoria's Harry Moore and Nanaimo's Brian McLaren tied for sixth with 4-2 records.

Victoria got a great performance from Danny Scoones who won A Class honors with a 5-1 record but had to share the spoils with a Vancouver dark horse, Bob Simic. Additional A Class prizes were won by Gerry Forbes of Port Alberni and Terry Wong and Jeff Reeve of Victoria, all tying for third place with 4-2 scores. Scoones had a fantastic tournament with only one lapse — a loss to Harper.

Vancouver Island was blanked in B Class, won by Tom Strothotte, 17, of Burnaby, with 4½-1½, but Terry MacKay of Victoria made up for it by winning C Class honors, also with 4½-1½. MacKay is a product of Cyril Large's elementary schools C-FAX chess program and this was his best performance in some time.

Another excellent Vancouver Island showing came in the D-Unrated class. It was won by Rudy Vidovich of Vancouver, 4½-1½, followed by George Wong of Victoria (no relation to Terry Wong) 4-2, and David Steele of Qualicum Bay, 3½-2½.

One more great Vancouver Island contribution came in the organizational field, with Lynn Stringer of Victoria becoming the first woman in the province to co-direct a major Lower Mainland tournament. Mrs. Stringer, who has directed tournaments on the Island, is also woman's co-ordinator with the Chess Federation of Canada.

Army boss picks side

LISBON (AP) — The chief of the Portuguese army, whose troops would be decisive in any confrontation, sided with anti-Communists on Tuesday and attacked Gen. Vasco Goncalves as a cause of disunity in the army.

The statement by army Chief-of-Staff Gen. Carlos Fabiao challenged the president's nomination of Goncalves, regarded as pro-Communist, to head the armed forces, and reduced the possibility that the outgoing premier would be sworn in as Portugal's top military man.

Fabiao spoke as 240 officers and other military men from the army, largest branch of the armed forces, met at a barracks outside Lisbon with prominent anti-Goncalves leaders to trim Communist party influence in the army.

At the meeting were influential dissidents who led the drive in the armed forces that obliged President Francisco da Costa Gomes to drop Goncalves as premier.

The army chief's stand followed an even tougher denunciation of Goncalves by Gen. Jose Morais da Silva, head of the air force, Monday. The president called Morais da Silva on the carpet to explain his open insubordination.

Goncalves was to have been sworn in Monday, but the ceremony was delayed and a newspaper said the investiture would not take place until after the armed forces general assembly meets Friday.

Rail ponders mass layoffs

VANCOUVER (CP) — A B.C. Railway spokesman says the company will consider mass layoffs if there are anymore rotating strikes.

Members of the United Transportation Union and the Canadian Union of Transportation Employees have been staging rotating walkouts as a total of 11 unions seek new contracts. Previous contracts expired July 31.

No strike action appeared planned for today, because the unions have been giving 24-hour notice and none had been given.

Members of the UTU and C.U.T.E. walked out Tuesday for 12 hours at Squamish and North Vancouver.

"The work stoppages Tuesday are the third within a week and certain areas have been affected," the railway spokesman said.

Union spokesmen have said they will not interfere with railway operation. However, the company spokesman said an embargo on livestock, perishables and explosives because of the wslkouts has reduced the amount of traffic.

The 12-hour strikes began last Wednesday at Prince George. Workers at Fort St. John, Chetwynd and Dawson Creek walked off the job Friday.

Hugh Armstrong, railway spokesman, said a freight train between Squamish and Lillooet north of here was cancelled because of Tuesday's walkout. He said a northbound freight from North Vancouver also was cancelled.

Armstrong said neither southbound trains nor passenger service was affected.

Dave Sifert, UTU spokesman, said Monday that if the BCR didn't begin negotiating soon with the unions, the strikes would spread.

Adjusters given house case

Mary Larre isn't just fighting city hall.

Saanich council decided Monday to hand her complaints over to the municipality's insurance adjusters for settlement.

Since March she has been blaming municipal work for basement floods, a collapsing oil tank, a sinking house foundation, and devaluation of her house at 833 Darwin.

The main problem, she claims, is 20 feet of earth piled on the back lot which she sold to Saanich more than three years ago.

The house was last appraised in June, 1972, and found to be in good condition, she said. After that she moved to Saskatchewan and rented her house. She returned in January to find the dirt pile and a lopsided house.

Council ordered a study of the complaints by an independent engineer in June.

Council hasn't given Mrs. Larre a copy of that report, but she says the engineer supported her claims.

At Monday's council meeting, Ald. Joe Bourque asked that Mrs. Larre's case be discussed, although a motion to that effect from the lands, planning, and housing committee had been left off the agenda.

Council decided, during a two-hour closed meeting following its regular meeting, to send Mrs. Larre's claims to its insurance adjusters.

Fire crackdown slows

By JIM GIBSON
Colonist Reporter

Victoria's crackdown on downtown residential buildings that do not meet the National Building Code's fire safety standards appears to be lessening.

At Tuesday's council-in-caucus meeting, Mayor Peter Pollen agreed to write the fire marshal's office requesting that the standards be bent in order to save low-cost rental cost housing which face being razed because owners refuse to make costly safety renovations.

Pollen's move followed a letter from MEPC Canadian Properties Ltd. owner of two hotels in the 700-block Yates, requesting "flexibility" in the application of fire safety standards.

The letter, signed by manager J. W. Hayes, warned of 1,000 homeless tenants and loss of the city tax base if owners close their premises rather than make costly renovations required to meet the safety standards.

Last month, the owners of St. Helen's Apartments, 828 Courtney, said they were evicting 41 tenants by October rather than make the $125,000 renovations ordered by the city fire department.

Deputy chief Carl Coates told council that several other hotel and apartment owners had indicated they would appeal rather than comply with orders to renovate.

Ald. Sam Bawlf suggested, as he has done many times before, that the city follow Vancouver's example and insist on sprinklers at its older downtown residences.

Subdivision issue still not settled

After months of bouncing D'Arcy Bridgman's subdivision application between committee and council, Saanich council was determined to settle the issue Monday.

But in spite of that determination, the application was tabled for further study.

Last year Bridgman applied to subdivide his .76 acre lot at 2600 McDonald, forming two lots smaller than the area's half-acre minimum.

Council could see nothing wrong with Bridgman's idea, except that the whole McDonald area would have to be rezoned to accommodate him. Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association is vehemently opposed to that move.

That's where the problem has remained for some months.

At Monday's meeting, Ald. Joe Bourque suggested that a new and separate zone district be formed to include Bridgman's lot and nine nonconforming lots in the McDonald area.

The matter was tabled to give staff a chance to study and report on Bourque's suggestion.

Victoria Press and the future

For several months the threat of a merger has hung over The Daily Colonist and The Victoria Times. The newspapers, published by Victoria Press Ltd., have incurred severe financial losses since they resumed publication on May 29, 1974, after a six-month strike.

Management has for months been urging the staff to accept cutbacks and economies that would keep both papers going but with no success. The decision to combine into one newspaper cannot be delayed much longer.

Because Victoria Press considers the matter to be of vital concern to the readers of this newspaper, the text of a letter from Stuart Underhill, vice-president of Victoria Press, which was distributed Tuesday to all employees, is published below in full.

Dear Employee:

You will recall Mr. Melville's (J.C. Melville, general manager of Victoria Press) letter of May 28. It was addressed to the Joint Council of Unions, but a copy went to every member of the staff. It set out the proposals the company put forward in order to eliminate heavy monthly losses and keep both newspapers alive. The gist of it was summarized in my letter of July 14.

The main requests were that wages be pegged at the levels before June this year, and that all wasteful and unnecessary make-work practices such as bogus setting, extra bundling in the mail room, and over-manning in the mail room and press room be eliminated and that productivity be improved. Since we first put them forward, another scheduled wage increase went into effect on June 1 adding around $35,000 to our monthly operating costs — or you could say, adding that amount to our monthly losses.

We requested that every member of the staff have a chance to vote on the company's proposals, since the alternative is to go to one newspaper, with a heavy loss of jobs which could be averted by some belt tightening. Management is moving toward a one-paper operation with the greatest reluctance and would make a real effort to maintain both if given a chance. Mr. R. S. Malone, President of FP Publications, gave this assurance to Mr. Clive McKee and representatives of the Joint Council of Unions when they met in Vancouver on August 19. In these uncertain times he obviously could not give an unqualified guarantee that two papers would be continued indefinitely.

Now we are told that the company's proposals are unacceptable. This means that the question is rapidly becoming not whether we go to one newspaper, but when.

Let us review the events that have brought us to this unhappy situation.

The root of the problem is the costly settlement which management accepted in May last year in order to end the long shutdown, along with the drop in productivity that has taken place. It has proved too much for the company to carry.

Despite a contract clause which permitted staff to be reduced 10 per cent by attrition we are now employing more people than we did when the strike began. Despite pledges of co-operation from the Joint Council of Unions at the time of the settlement, most of the additional staff results from the make-work practices mentioned above. Hardly any other contracts in North America are burdened with such restrictive practices.

The high wage scale at Victoria Press is another problem. Historically, wage rates have been about eight per cent lower here than those in the large metropolitan centres of Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal. This makes sense. Victoria just doesn't have the economy or population to match the circulation and advertising volumes possible in bigger cities, and gets a much lower advertising rate for the same space sold.

To end the strike before there was nothing left to recover, management took on wage increases that pushed Victoria rates to a scale equal to, or higher than, almost any metropolitan centre in Canada or indeed North America. Added further were the many expensive fringe benefits we had to accept.

It did not take long to demonstrate that we had assumed a burden that was going to crush our two newspapers. To give you some idea of the staggering increase in our costs the following shows how our monthly wage bills have risen:

	July 1973	July 1975	Increase in 1975 over 1973 $	%
Composing Room	$132,248	$196,189	$ 63,941	48.3%
Stereo Room	21,277	35,145	13,868	65.1%
Press Room	22,621	34,646	12,025	53.1%
Mail Room	14,147	25,276	11,129	78.6%
Guild Departments	172,309	254,308	81,999	47.5%
	$362,602	$545,564	$182,962	50.4%

On top of this we have had an oppressively heavy increase in the price of newsprint and other material costs. We have now used up all our surplus assets, borrowed heavily from our parent company, FP Publications Ltd., and owe nearly another half million to the bank.

Last autumn we began talks with the unions seeking some easement. At the request of the Joint Council we followed a procedure laid down in a Letter of Understanding which deals with steps that could be taken if the company was losing money a year after the strike ended. An independent audit by Price, Waterhouse confirmed our loss position. We presented our program of proposed savings early in the proceedings but received no satisfactory response. So on August 19 we moved ahead to another provision of the Letter of Understanding, the meeting with Mr. McKee, the Industrial Inquiry Commissioner who presided over negotiations prior to settlement of the strike last year. Present at this meeting was Mr. Malone, myself and representatives of the Joint Council.

Nothing came of that meeting, however, and on August 26 the Joint Council informed Mr. McKee that the union members of Victoria Press had, at meetings on August 24, turned down the company's proposals and instead endorsed the Council's actions in its abortive discussions with management.

The possibility of this outcome had to be considered and, on August 1, I had reported to my Board of Directors that unless we could get relief from our losses, we seemed to have no choice but to proceed to a one-paper operation. We could not remain as we are. The Board withheld its instructions pending the outcome of the McKee-Malone talks, but barring a last-minute development a one-paper operation in the near future can be regarded as certainty. Considerable planning is required, but you will be kept informed of progress.

I am bringing these hard and unpleasant facts to your personal attention as your job may be one of those affected. Time has almost run out. The sad thing is that a little collective co-operation could keep both papers going.

Which brings me to my final point. We have heard that it is being said that the company intended to go to one newspaper regardless of what action the Council took or what concessions the unions made. We have been told that this is a reason for not acceding to the company's proposals. I would like to refute the suggestion as strongly as I can — it is simply not true. One newspaper has no greater financial attraction than a well-run two-paper operation. It multiplies the number of jobs to be lost and it leaves the community poorer. If we had wanted to merge the two papers we could have done so years ago. It is a move which we now contemplate only in an attempt to stem our losses. It is a move that does not have to be, and can be averted even now. It has been forced on us simply because we were given no encouragement or choice that our two-paper operation could be returned to a sound position.

Indeed, one of the tragic aspects of our present situation is that there has been no practical discussion of the company's proposals with the Joint Council or any other union representative.

Yours sincerely,
STUART UNDERHILL,
Vice-President,
Victoria Press Ltd.

"M.C." with pipe and glasses

Man died on reserve 10 years ago

Who knows who he was?

Who is M.C. and how did he die? For that matter, were his initials really M.C.?

In an attempt to solve the unusual case, the Colwood RCMP detective division Tuesday released photographs of a casting made by an RCMP identification expert from the skull of an elderly man whose body was found May 1, 1974, on the East Saanich Indian reserve.

It was the first such casting made by Cpl. John Faux since he began his special identification duties, a new departure for the RCMP, more than a year ago in the southern Vancouver Island area.

Chief investigator Constable William Thomas emphasized that foul play is not suspected in the mystery man's death which occurred at least a decade ago. He asked anyone with information based on the casting photograph to phone the Colwood GIS (general investigation section) at 388-3123.

The skeleton of a man, believed to have been about 70 years of age when he died at least 10 years ago, was found May 1, 1974, by Central Saanich police Chief Robert Miles while he was checking an abandoned car near Puckle Road.

The man was about five feet, six inches tall and was wearing a suit, shirt, tie with Windsor knot and black ankle boots when he died.

In the area, police found a pipe with silver band, gold rim glasses, a silver pencil bearing the initials M.C., a pocket knife, an empty leather change purse and a set of British-made false teeth.

55-year-old watch

The pipe was beside the skeleton's outstretched hand. The pocket watch, bearing a Birks trademark, was about 55 years old.

Thomas said an autopsy indicated no broken bones. He said the investigation was being pressed because it was "unusual for an elderly gentleman dressed so well" with gold possessions to die in an unsettled area.

At the time of death, there were hardly any homes in the wooded region.

Thomas also said Faux was unable to determine if the man had head hair or a moustache, so they were omitted from the casting and persons seeking to put a name to the head should keep that in mind.

Rest homes cut by third in two years

By JON FERRY
Colonist Reporter

Greater Victoria's rest home business could well be its fastest dying one.

Within the past couple of years one third of the rest homes in the region — some 30 out of 90 homes — have gone out of business.

Gerry Sommers, the provincial civil servant responsible for placing welfare patients in such homes, says 900 beds out of a total of 2,000 have been "lost" during this period.

"It's a very critical situation . . . the crunch is really coming now," Sommers said Tuesday.

The placement supervisor's comments came after the Colonist learned that Joan Crescent Manor, a medium sized Victoria rest home accommodating some 35 old folks, has had its licence cancelled by the province.

The 35 patients, several of whom need regular nursing supervision, have been given notice to leave by the end of the month.

Sommers says it's going to be a "very, very difficult thing" finding places for the displaced who can't afford expensive private rates.

He says there's only one suitable home with any vacancies and that Oak Bay home normally charges rates well above what the province is prepared to pay for its welfare patients.

Sommers points to a current list of between 45 and 50 patients waiting for a bed in a rest home (or, to use the official jargon, a "personal care" home offering a relatively light level of supervision).

There's also a 45-50 waiting list for the area's remaining private hospitals.

Some of the people on these waiting lists could be occupying beds at Victoria General or Royal Jubilee hospitals, others would be "in the community."

Meanwhile St. Anthony's Boarding Home has given notice to the privnce that it intends to close at the end of October.

The provincial government is believed to be looking at ways of helping the home — alongside St. Mary's Priory extended care hospital — keep afloat.

Reasons for the staggering number of rest home closures are legion.

Rising wage, food and other basic costs together with lack of government support are cited by many operators, some of whom eventually find the job is too demanding or fat offers from real estate men too tempting.

The province is thought to be encouraging non-profit societies to build homes to care for the elderly in the community.

But as Sommers notes, so far the existing homes are closing faster than the plans for new ones are coming off the drawing board.

From planning to building is another time-consuming step. "Meanwhile what are we going to do with the patients?" asks the obviously worried civil servant whose job it will be to come up with beds out of nowhere.

New act abolishes lay judges in B.C.

Sept. 15 has been set as the deadline for abolition of part-time judges in B.C. provincial courts.

Deputy attorney-general David Vickers said Tuesday the change will be one result of the proclamation into law of a new provincial court act. A cabinet order made public Tuesday proclaims most sections of the act, passed at the last legislative session, effective Sept. 15.

The section which effectively bans part-time judges has not yet been proclaimed, but Vickers said the plan is to allow full-time judges to take over on that day.

Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre of Victoria is one of the Vancouver Island judges who will be affected by the new act.

Vickers said about 50 persons who have been acting as part-time judges, mainly in remote areas of the province, will be affected. The move to abolish the part-time judges is part of the government's plan to get rid of lay judges and substitute legally-trained judges in the provincial courts.

Most of the part-time judges are lay judges. Their removal will leave only three lay judges in B.C., Vickers said The three — William Ostler in Victoria and John Anderson and T. L. Steele on the Lower Mainland — have all been working as full-time judges and will continue to do so.

Once the part-time judges are eliminated, a combination of justices of the peace and the legally-trained judges will administer justice in even the remote areas of the province, Vickers said. He explained that the justices of the peace, all lay persons, will deal with routine matters and minor law infractions. Legally-trained judges from larger centres will go to the remote communities occasionally for trials of criminal code offences and other serious matters.

The new act also specifies the powers of the chief provincial court judge, allowing him to assign other judges to various duties and also to supervise those judges. The act also increases the scope, duties, and powers of the judicial council, allowing the council to become involved in the upgrading of judicial services.

Trustees order cost study for schools

By KING LEE
Colonist Reporter

Greater Victoria school trustees continued to argue the merits of community schools Tuesday night at Camosun College.

At a Camosun College council meeting chaired by Dr. Harold Knight, a member of the school board who advocates a cost study of community schools, trustees Janet Baird and Philip Perry voiced other ideas on the subject.

Discussion came during a report on joint-planning proposals between the college and other agencies under school board authority.

Mrs. Baird said the community school in James Bay had not been accountable to the board for policies and financing.

"They want to run their own show," she said. "But they want someone to pay the bills."

Perry, who is chairman of the board's construction and maintenance committee, suggested that the board be asked if it will allow policy-planning meetings between the college and community schools.

The board decided in July to cut off special financing for James Bay and other community schools on Dec. 31, drawing some strong reaction from citizens' groups and community workers.

Community schools were established to help pre-schoolers to older folks with afternoon and evening classes, providing such ancillary services as day-care centres, libraries and medical clinics.

Knight and Brian Lewis, a Fernwood community worker, proposed a six-month study of the costs of operating such schools.

The study is expected to cost between $20,000 and $25,000 but Knight said the secretary of state representative "thinks it's a very good idea" and that the federal department may foot the bill.

In a written brief, Knight and Lewis said "the potential value of community education for the taxpayer has never been explored."

City asks business for ideas

The city of Victoria has asked the business community for suggestions on how to attract residential development to a 12 city-block area.

The area, bounded by Blanshard and Cook, Fort and Pandora, is now in a "state of disarray," according to Peter Crisp, Victoria's assistant planning director.

Crisp aired the city's request for ideas Tuesday at a meeting of council's Central Business District Advisory Committee.

The city's planning department has been working for some time on a "central neighborhood study" which will determine the future development of the area.

Crisp told the meeting it is not being utilized to its full extent. He said there were numerous parking lots which the city would like to see developed in some way.

The question, he said, was how to attract residential development.

Unless the city steers development into proper channels, Crisp said, the area would probably become another office district.

He said his department didn't want to submit a plan to council unless there was a possibility of implementing it.

Cool Aid founder named to provincial commission

Charles Barber of Victoria, has been appointed to the Capital Improvement District Commission by the provincial government.

Barber, who founded the Cool Aid youth organization, is being mentioned as a possible NDP candidate in Victoria in the next provincial election.

In the cabinet order approving the appointment, two other Victorians, Thomas Sturgess and L. J. Wallace were re-appointed to the commission, which is responsible for the planning and development of lands within the legislative precinct and also offers financial assistance to municipalities in the capital city area.

Assault on officer nets $1,500 fine

"He's going to be taught a lesson," Judge Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said Tuesday in Victoria Provincial Court just before levying one of the largest fines in memory for assaulting of a peace officer.

Victoria West resident Robert Douglas Renton, 25, of 655 Griffith, was fined $1,500 and put on a two-year term of probation for an assault from which a Victoria constable has not yet fully recovered.

Renton pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of assaulting Constable William Sherman early June 1 when Sherman was trying to make an arrest of a man for causing a distrubance on Gorge Road.

Once defence lawyer William McElmoyle entered the plea, prosecutor Peter Hull asked for withdrawal of counts of resisting, obstructing and escaping from Sherman at the same time.

Hull said Renton had no previous record and St. Jorre said that if Renton had possessed any record and was "prone to this type of offence, I would without hesitation" impose a two-year prison term.

The judge said he viewed the case as "a very, very serious matter" especially since Sherman was still feeling the effects of a kick in the stomach, a blow to one shoulder and a sprained ankle. He noted the maximum penalty was five years in prison.

Big chinook's battle was moderate

Martin Trowsdale, 2836 Carlow, Langford, had the thrill of hooking his first big chinook Tuesday morning. He landed a 40-pounder from off the kelp bed at Pedder Bay.

Trowsdale was fishing with his brother, Dan, when the big fish struck at 7:30. It took Trowsdale about 15 minutes to be able to land the fish which, he said, didn't put up much of a battle.

The only problem he encountered was in netting the chinook. He found the net too small, and had to gaff it.

The largest fish Martin had caught previously was a 9-pounder.

He was using 120 feet of line with 12 ounces of weight and a green hootchie as a lure.

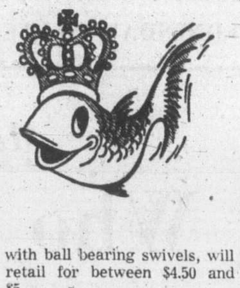

Alfred Perri, 3149 Orillia, still holds the lead as the Colonist subscriber with the heaviest fish taken on a hootchie or fly-type lure — a 41.8-pound chinook taken on a green and white hootchie on July 19. He is in line for the Radiant prize of a tackle box filled with assorted Radiant lures.

But Trowsdale has shown that Perri's lead is far from safe.

Bryan Smith of O'Ki Tackle Manufacturing Co. of Sidney has come out with a new revolving flasher which commercial fishermen who have tested it say "really catches fish."

It is similar to the Hot Spot flasher, but the chrome or prism mylar is embossed inside the flasher and is guaranteed never to wear out.

The flasher, which comes with ball bearing swivels, will retail for between $4.50 and $5.

When parakeet's life is in peril

erma bombeck

A line in a sermon got me to thinking the other week. It posed the question, "'Whom do you consider the loneliest person in the world?"

The candidates began to fill my mind like a free lunch at a bar. Unquestionably they were:

The man with 800 slides of his vacation.

A kid at camp with measles.

An obscene phone caller who lost his dime.

The owner of a laundromat in a nudist colony.

The vice-president of anything.

The woman who bleaches her hair at home.

Chaperones on a field trip to Passion Park.

Then it hit me. Maybe I don't speak for anyone else, but for me. The loneliest moment of my life is when I have a livingroom full of guests and I am in the kitchen checking on a new recipe: Chicken Wonderment.

There is no other moment to match it.

The guests have been smiling for two and a half hours and are so bored they're discussing their dental appointments . . . the snacks, so colorful and appetizing when the guests arrived, now have the appeal of a cage that hasn't been cleaned in a while . . . and everyone is anxiously facing the kitchen like they are anticipating the second coming.

In the kitchen I approach the oven like a pitcher going to the mound in the bottom of the ninth with men on first and bird and the count three balls, two strikes.

I am alone .I summon my best friend, Mayva, who says, "You'd better snap it up. They're starting to organize rescue parties."

I am alone. My husband, without a hint of compassion, says, "For crying out loud . . . another 20 minutes and I can't guarantee the safety of our parakeet."

I am alone. I summon God and He puts me on hold.

Loneliness. It's that moment when you take the lid off the roaster and the sour cream that was supposed to thicken into a rich sauce didn't. And the chicken that was supposed to cook to plump tenderness is as hard as Billie Jean King's thigh. And the peas have drowned in their own butter and are lying in the pan like the creek dried up . . . and the rolls spill over their pans and are heading for the other wall, and the cnadles have reached the end of their wicks and are sputtering in their own wax.

The guests have stopped talking now to conserve energy. That's loneliness.

Bakeapples bountiful

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's wild fruit, especially the top two commercial varieties of bakeapples and blueberries, are flourishing this year.

The delicious bakeapple, a golden-yellow when ripe and shaped like a lumpy strawberry, matures this month and is the first summer cash crop for farmers' families and others who tramp through marshes and boglands, acquiring a day-long stoop to pick the ground-level berry.

They are in big demand on the local market and a few are shipped to points outside the province.

Roger Bidgood, who specializes in local products for distribution here and for export, says the demand this year is great both at home and abroad "and we can sell whatever quantity is available to us."

The bakeapple also grows abundantly in Labrador, Newfoundland's mainland sector, and the provincial government is studying the feasibility of having the fruit harvested and exported from that area as a seasonal industry and income supplement for residents of the northern land who currently depend on fishing for a livelihood.

ann landers

Dear Ann Landers: Why would a bright, loving man who showed every consideration for his wife and children during his lifetime die without leaving them protected by a will?

It's too late for your answer to help us, but please, Ann, print this letter because both my attorney and funeral director have told me that an unbelievable number of men, responsible and competent in fiscal matters, behave as if they are going to live forever. They make no preparation whatever for the eventuality of death.

I am now faced with a financial mess beyond belief. Attorney's fees and inheritance taxes are horrendous. I am also having heartbreaking problems with my husband's brother over some property — the ownership of which is unclear.

I know my husband loved me and the children with all his heart. Why didn't he take care of us properly? — Thorns Among The Widow's Weeds

Dear Thorns: Why? Because he hated to think about death — as if by ignoring it, it would ignore him.

I hope every man who reads this column will ask himself, "If I died tonight would my family be protected financially?" If the answer is "yes," you deserve to sleep like a baby. If not, get busy and put your affairs in order. You owe it to those you love.

Dear Ann Landers: I can't do one other thing until I write a letter which I hope Melanie's parents will read. She's the 22-year-old girl who wanted to have her nose done.

I, too, had a nose with "character", according to my parents. They were dead set against my doing anything to change it. Actually, it was a big blob and much too big for my face. I hated it.

After months of pleading, my father took me to a plastic surgeon who was well known for his fine work, fair prices and high ethical standards. He sided with me and his operation changed my life.

Like Melanie, I was never popular. After the surgery I was the same old me but my whole attitude changed. I had confidence when I met new people and a much better opinion of myself.

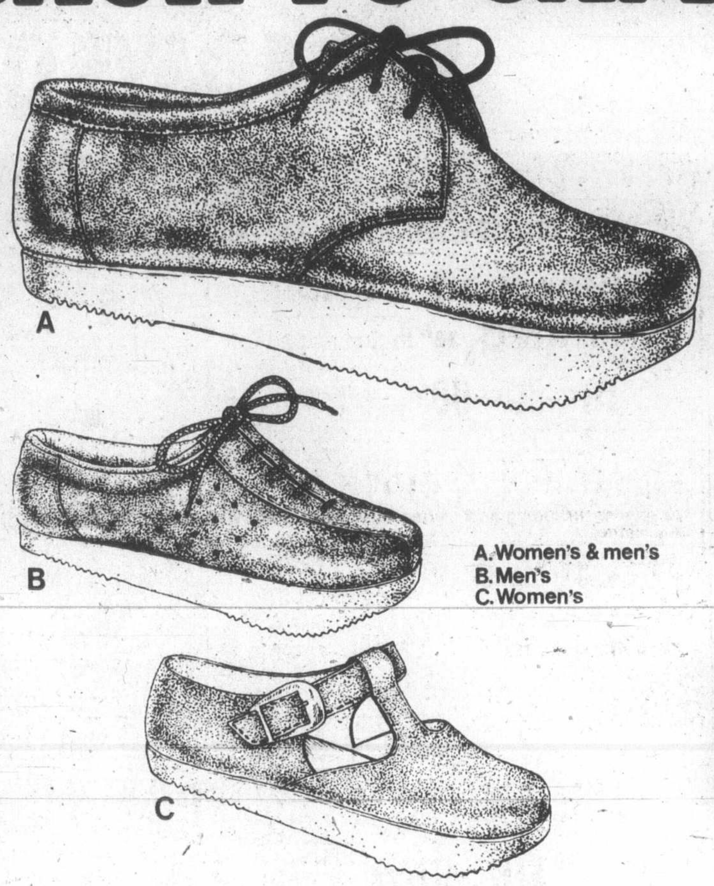

Now, even my parents admit I was right. Good luck, Melanie! — Much Happier

Dear Much: The key phrase in your letter, which should be noted carefully, is "a plastic surgeon well known for his fine work, fair prices and high ethical standards". Take heed, readers — and thanks for writing, dear.

Icons stolen in Greece

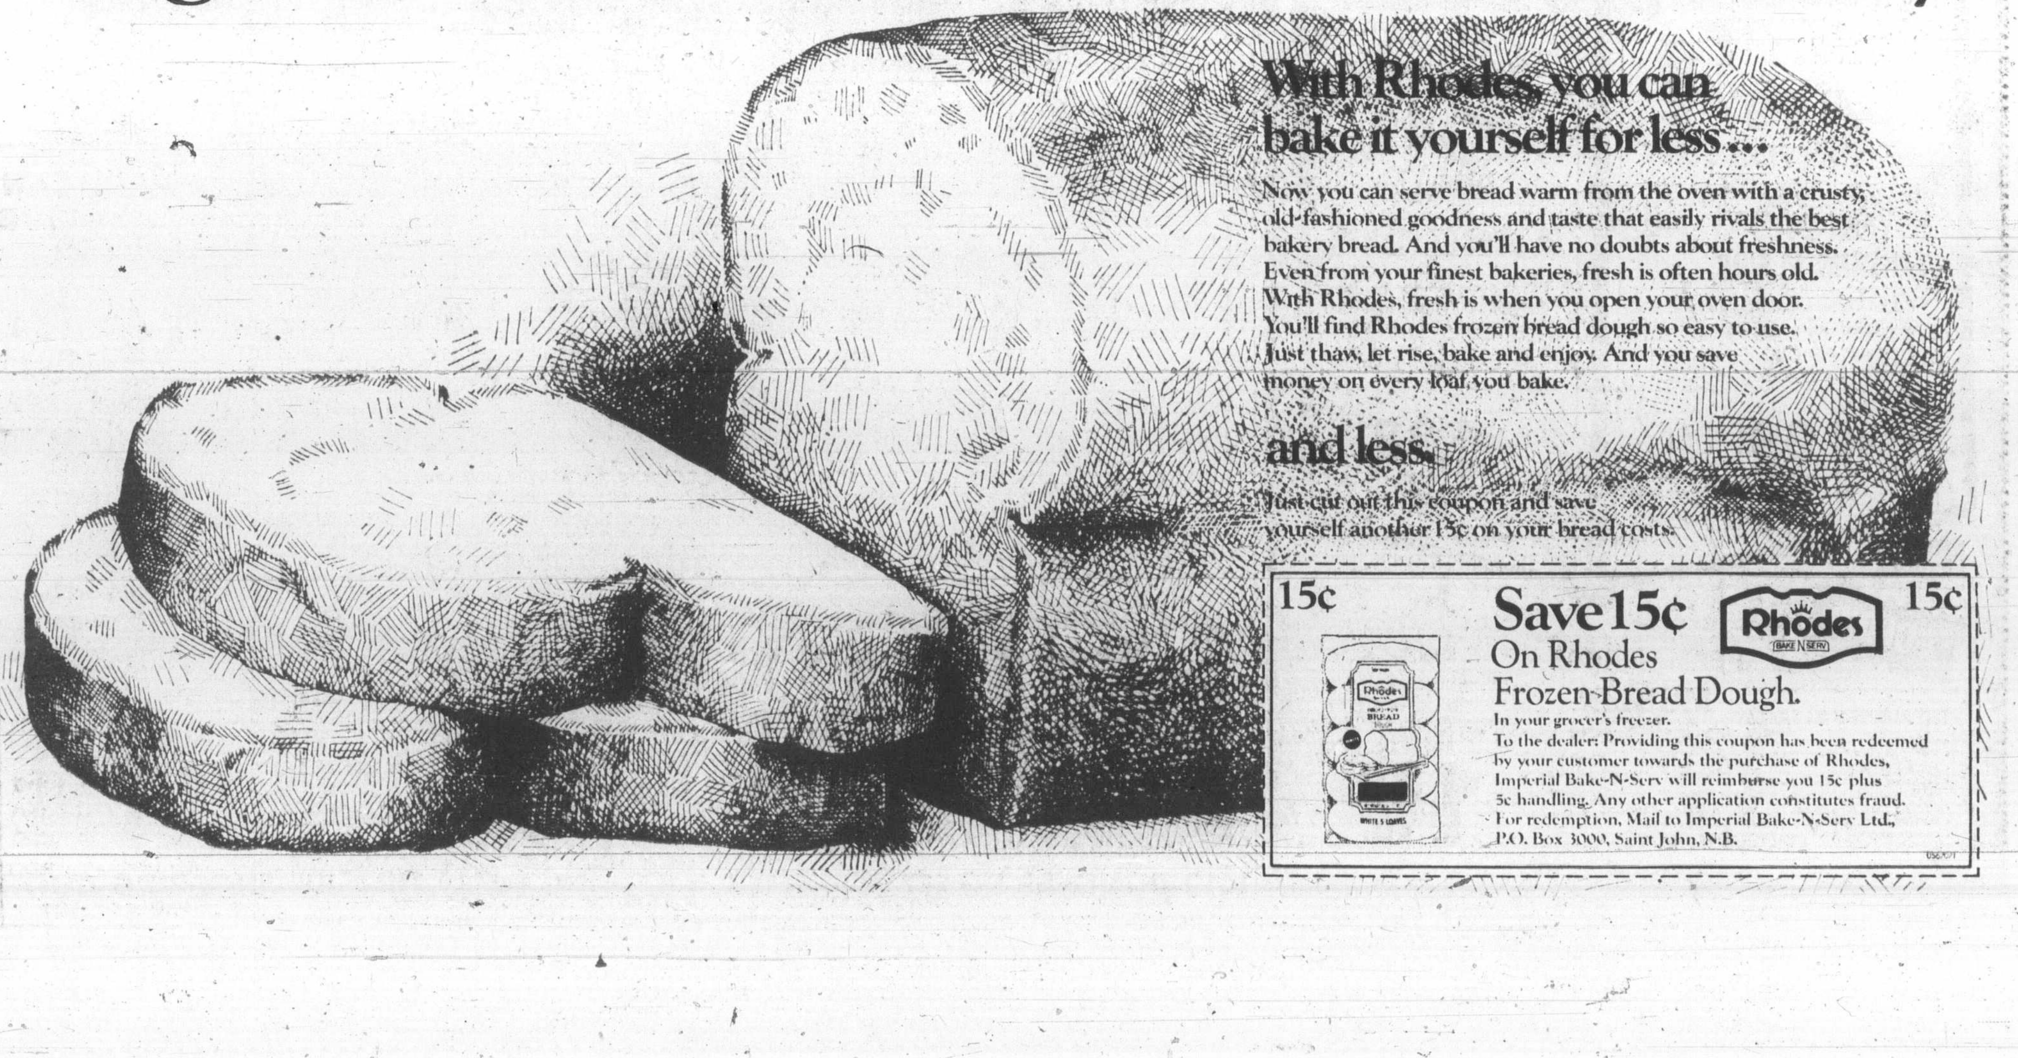

ATHENS (UPI) — Thieves broke into the Byzantine Chapel where Christina Onassis was married and stole valuable icons, police disclosed Saturday. The raiders forced an outside door of the Chapel of Akathistos Hymnos in Glyfada on Aug. 5 and escaped with 16 150-year-old icons, worth several hundred thousand dollars, police said.

Roller king record 'greatest sensation'

Victoria's marathon roller skater Clint Shaw says "it's the greatest sensation I've ever felt," as he claimed the world's record for marathon roller skating Saturday in California.

Shaw, 34, spent the entire 179 hours — save one-five minute break each hour — circling a roller skating rink in the Reseda area.

He started the marathon Aug. 23 and ended Saturday night, shattering the old Guinness World Book of Records mark of 147 hours set in 1935 by Walter Miller in Boise, Idaho, and exceeding by one hour a newer record set last March by two skaters in Montgomery, Ala.

Ex-Grit Davis joins Socreds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former federal cabinet minister Jack Davis said Monday he had turned in his Liberal party card in favor of a membership in the Social Credit party.

The former MP for Capilano, defeated in the 1974 general election, said he did not yet know whether he would run in the next British Columbia election. "I've simply joined," he said.

"I think Social Credit is the only party that can form a (provincial) government that is capable of expressing the objectives I'm interested in," he said in an interview. "I'm still a Liberal — I believe in Liberal principles (but) I think this is the party in which I can be most effective.

"I don't think the B.C. Liberals can make it."

Davis said that having lost the last federal election to conservative Ron Huntington he faced a long wait before he would have a chance at federal elective office again, so he decided to join Social Credit and to get back into active politics.

Asked how he would respond to critics who might term his action opportunistic, Davis said he didn't see it that way.

"I suppose if I'd been opportunistic I would have hung around the federal Liberals and hoped for some kind of appointment," he said.

Davis, 59, first elected to Parliament in the June, 1962, general election, was appointed environment minister in April, 1968, and fisheries minister in November, 1972.

Provincial Liberal leader David Anderson, who is on a camping holiday in northern B.C., could not be reached for comment.

Sooke logger tops timber show

Veteran Sooke logger Brian Herlihy captained the Canadian team to victory and retention of its world relay team championship at the Pacific National Exhibition timber show Monday.

Canada, which had earlier eliminated a New Zealand squad, took the seven event final with a time of four minutes 49.5 seconds, well ahead of the United States time of five minutes 35.4 seconds.

Herlihy gave the team a flying start in the underhand chop and his lead was maintained by Pete Holmquist of Burnaby, Owen Carney and Ian Moratti of Squamish, and John Johnson of Sooke.

Born in New Zealand, Herlihy came to Sooke nine years ago, and has been a consistent winner in Canadian logging games ever since.

In his first three years in Sooke he won the over-all championship title consistently at All Sooke Day. Before that he was a competitor in logging sports in New Zealand.

The U.S. team was captained by PNE champion logger Earl Marcellus of Leavenworth, Wash. Other members of the team were: Forest Corey, Leavenworth; Ed Rosemeyer, Sutherlin, Ore.; Jack Adams, Hoquiam, Wash.; and Rudy Dettmer, Youngstown, Ohio.

A 31-year-old Washington state logger won the all-round award at the open world logging championships Saturday.

Marcellus did not win any of the seven individual events but his over-all consistency earned him the top logger award which was won the last two years by Ron Hartill of Sooke.

Hartill was absent from the PNE competition this year.

Winner of the underhand chop event was Jim Alexander, who flies from Australia at his own expense each year to take part.

Merv Jenson of New Plymouth, part of the strong New Zealand contingent, won the hand bucking while Clayton Stewart of Davenport, Tasmania, took the springboard chop.

Charlie McCall of Lewiston, Idaho, took yet another title out of Canada with a win in the log birling.

British Columbia champions were Darrell McNutt of Squamish, choker race; Mike Herrling, Burnaby, obstacle pole; and Henry Guavin of Kokish, axe-throwing.

Named the open sportsman was John Wolcott, 34, of Molalla, Ore.

In other PNE championships, the intermediate title went to Rob Smith, 16, of Woss Lake, who was the novice champion in 1974. The sportsman award in this division was won by Alan Smith of Youngstown, New Zealand.

Russel Gates of Missoula, Mont., won the title of all-round novice logger while the sportsman's award went to George Vaughan of Horsefly, B.C.

THE CLOTH IS ALL-WOOL FLANNEL. THE BUTTONS ARE CHOSEN BY HAND

The pure wool cloth in a Tip Top Leishman suit is news to practically no one.

We've been using nothing but the best for 60 years.

The flannel we tell you about because this year flannel is the cloth. (If you were to buy just one suit this season, a vested flannel would be it.)

But the hand-chosen buttons. You may ask, "who cares?"

"We do," we answer. For it is that very care in choosing the most complementary buttons for a Leishman suit that makes it the best clothing value in the country today.

It's that same care we take in choosing the linings. The meticulous matching of the stitching to emphasize the lapel edges and pocket flaps.

These are the details. The little things that make the measure of a great suit. A suit such as shown here.

Its colours are coffee brown, stone blue, winter grey and wheat. Colours which bring out the richness of the flannel cloth.

For its regular price of $189.95 there isn't a more fashionable, better-made vested suit available.

No store pickets today

Vancouver Island shoppers won't be met by pickets today when they visit supermarkets involved in a labor dispute with three unions.

Retail clerks union president Rudy Krickan said the three unions — meatcutters, bakery workers, and retail clerks — met Tuesday to discuss their picketing strategy.

He said there would be no picketing today and that any decision to start picketing would be made "on a day-to-day basis."

Both the meatcutters' local of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers Union and Bakery Workers Local 468 are poised to strike. Members of the B.C. Food Council have agreed to lock out retail clerks if any pickets appear at their stores.

The dispute is only expected to spread to Vancouver Island if the meatcutters strike Super-Valu on the Lower Mainland, then the stores will lock out their meatcutters.

Only the Safeway at Fort and Foul Bay is touched by the bakery dispute. Most of Vancouver Island's bread is supplied by McDonalds.

The affected Victoria area supermarkets include 10 Safeways, three Shop Easy stores, Economart and the Maverick Market.

All Vancouver Island Kelly-Douglas stores and Safeways are similarly involved in the dispute.

Bastion unveils facelift

Bastion Theatre unveiled a new logo Tuesday at a news conference to mark the start of the theatre's subscription drive.

According to spokesman Glynis Brownsey, the new green and blue logo combining the theatre's initials is part of "a facelift" for the theatre that begins a three year program aimed at developing Bastion into one of the country's important regional theatres.

Among the other firsts noted by Bastion officials at the conference were this year's 100-per-cent Canadian casts, a three rather than two production touring company, a women's committee, and a $105,000 Canada Council grant, up 50 per cent from last season.

Fishermen lose out

VANCOUVER (CP)— Canadian fishermen have no hope of equalling the United States catch of sockeye salmon this year, but attempts are being made to ensure they get their share of pink salmon.

The International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission chairman, Rod Hourston, said Monday Canadian purse seiners were allowed to begin fishing early Monday while their America ncounterparts had to wait until early Tuesday.

As well, Canadian gillnetters began fishing at 7 p.m. Monday, but American gillnetters were delayed until 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Hourston, who is also regional fisheries director for the environment department, said Canadian fishermen will not get their share of sockeye salmon this year because the run was just about over by the time a United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union strike ended a week ago.

ICBC opens doors but . . .

Bashed cars must wait

Vancouver Island's six Insurance Corporation of B.C. offices opened for the first time in 15-weeks Tuesday but most drivers with bashed cars will have to wait until next week before processing of their claims begins.

Most of Victoria's 56 ICBC employees spent their first day on the job working on day on the job working on claims from before the strike by members of the Office and Technical Employees Union.

One ICBC employee said drivers with claims during the strike period can either phone this week for an appointment or mail in an information card.

An ICBC spokesman in Vancouver, Bev Penhall, said all employees were called back for Tuesday and are "picking up the pieces that were left undone when they went on strike."

He said it is not yet known how many employees got other jobs during the strike and will not be returning to the crown-owned corporation that handles all car insurance in the province.

All Victoria ICBC employees returned to work.

Under a new contract—their first—ICBC employees have seven days to return to work. They get a 40-per-cent pay raise over 28 months and a number of fringe benefits.

Another provision is that they cannot be forced to work more than five hours overtime a week.

Penhall said there are no plans to keep the claims centres open longer than the pre-strike hours of 8:15 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays to Fridays.

Motorists with claims are being given appointment application forms at Motor Vehicle Branch offices, ICBC offices, independent agents' offices and through newspaper ads.

The form asks for basic details and promises motorists will be phoned with a time to go to the centre to which they have mailed the application.

Meanwhile ICBC estimators have started to make the rounds of the towing company storage yards, checking on damaged vehicles.

M. V. Chesnut's Garden notes

I have written before on the strange history of the tomato — of its wanderings from its native South America to North Africa, to Spain, to France, to England and back across the Atlantic to North America — and how it was once regarded as a poisonous plant and grown purely for its exotic and ornamental effect in the garden under the name Love Apple.

Later, it was valued as an aphrodisiac — a love potion — and when an ardent village maiden was faced with the problem of a bashful and unenterprising boy friend, she would "put a tiger in his tank" by slipping him a mickey of tomato juice in her beer!

The story of the peony is no less strange. Named in honor of Paeon, a physician of ancient Greece who first used the plant medicinally, it was believed that the seeds light up in the dark: "They shineth like stars and glittereth with a fiery brightness."

The harvesting of the seeds and roots was considered a hazardous business. One ancient book reports: "Of necessitie, it must be gathered in the darke; for if any man shall pluck off the seed pod in the day tyme, being seen of the Wood-pecker, he is in danger to lose his eies."

Another writer, Aelianthus of Greece, says: The Paeony is not to be plucked up without danger. He that first toucheth it, not knowing the danger thereof, perished miserably. Therefore a string must be fastened to it in the night and a hungry dog tied thereto, who being allured by the smell of roasted flesh set toward him, may plucke it up by the rootes."

The old Greeks seem a bit vague as to the actual medical virtues of the peony, which is rather surprising after all the difficulties they overcame in gathering the herb. The early English herbalists, however, had it taped definitely as a psychiatric medicine — an anti-depressant — and used it in the same way as our present day psychiatrists prescribe the modern wonder drugs to cure or control mental illness.

Culpepper recommended the root of the peony for the "falling sickness" — epilepsy — and directed that "the root be washed clean and crushed small, and infuse in wine for 24 hours at least; afterwards strain it and take, morning and evening, a good draught for sundry days together, especially before and after a full moon."

My favorite writer on the ancient lore of plants is John Gerard, a medical man who practiced in London in the 16th century and maintained an extensive experimental garden for the testing of new plants. Writing in the year 1595, Gerard says:

"A purgation of Peionie Seeds is good for Mad and Furious men, for melancholie, dull and heavy persons, and briefly for all that are troubled with the Blacke Choler, and molested with Melancholie."

Arthur Hoppe

My neighbor, Mr. Crannich, has become an overnight sensation. He claims he actually went to Europe this summer.

What with deflated dollar, inflated prices and a recession here and there, it seems preposterous that any American would consider going to Europe. But Crannich says it was "a wonderful experience".

As he tells it, his first thrill came when he stepped aboard the giant 747, which, of course, was empty except for 27 Arabs in first class.

"You must be making a mistake, sir," said the stewardess. "This aircraft is going to Europe."

"So am I," said Crannich with determination.

"That's funny," she said. "You don't look like Henry Kissinger."

At London's Heathrow Airport, Crannich told the Immigration Officer he was an American. "Would you please spell that, sir?" said the officer icily.

But when Crannich showed him his passport, the officer threw his pen in the air, embraced him and kissed him on both cheeks as a passing duchess knelt at his feet sobbing, "Have you brought any bundles for Britain?"

Crannich says he managed to find a room in a Soho hotel with private bath for only $70 a day. The bath was on the next floor down, he says, but it was very private. And at Buckingham Palace they changed the guard for him three times in 15 minutes, "even though," he says, "they all looked alike to me."

He also enjoyed Paris, though he had trouble adjusting to the solitude in the Louvre. But he had a marvelous lunch on the Champs Elysees for $32.12. "There must be some mistake," he said sternly to the elderly French waiter after checking the bill. "Your addition is correct!"

But the old man could only rub his hands and reply in a choked voice, "Lafayette, he is here!"

When Crannich stopped by the American Express to pick up his mail, the clerk, brushing cobwebs from his hair, immediately said, "Here's your letter, Mr. Crannich. It's the only one we've received in six months."

His fame spread. By the time he reached Rome, he regretfully had to decline a private audience with the Pope, who, he says, kept knocking at his door. "I was too busy haggling with the flea market vendors," he explains. "They kept happily demanding that I cheat them."

"All in all, it was a rewarding experience and I highly recommend that another American go to Europe some time," says Crannich, summing up his trip, "national debt or no national debt."

Frankly, I doubted he'd really gone to Europe at all. I did, that is, until he held a garage sale. He sold his two-car garage for $14,672 including the two cars it contained.

"Now if I can just sell my house and my shirt," he says, "I'll be back where I started from."

Sydney Harris

Things I Learned En Route to Looking Up Other Things:

● That since 1900, Americans have killed more fellow Americans with guns, here at home, than have been killed in all the wars the U.S. has fought during the same period.

● That all life on earth owes its existence to the fact that the distant galaxies in the universe steadily recede from us — else both day and night skies would shine as if filled with 150,000 suns.

● That there is only one authentic Danish name in the whole cast of characters of Hamlet: that of a minor figure in the drama, call Osric. (All the other names, including the title, were made up or changed by Shakespeare.)

⅜ That the horse is more closely related to the rhinoceros (and to a piglike creature called a tapir) than to cattle, deer, or antelope.

● That laying the dead to rest with flowers goes back as far as Neanderthal Man, some 60,000 years ago, in burial caves found in Iraq.

● That there are no true cedar trees in North America; what we call a white cedar is really aborvitae, and our so-called red cedar is actually a juniper.

● That as many as five per cent of all people who have ever lived are alive today.

● That labor was so cheap in England a century ago that Karl Marx, living in London in poverty that made him a regular patron of pawnshops, nevertheless had a housekeeper and a cleaning woman.

● That the human body is constructed on the principle of super-abundance, not parsimony — a person can live normally with 1-4 of his liver, 1-3 of each kidney, 1-5 of his thyroid gland, 1-5 of his pancreas, 1-10 of his adrenal tissue, and without almost all of his stomach and large intestine.

● That human slavery was not officially outlawed everywhere in the world until 1927.

● That odd word, "moniker," meaning someone's name, began as a piece of hobo's slang, for a tramp's mark that he placed on a property he had visited, combining "monogram" with "mark."

● That only Michelangelo's drawings can be said with certainty to have been executed by him alone: much of the rest of his better-known work was filled in or completed by teams of assistants.

● That the bagpipe, now exclusively associated with Scotland, originally came from Sumeria and Egypt; and that the word "music" itself is supposed to have derived from the instrument's late Latin name, musa.

● That, until the last three decades, very few medical drugs had any significant potency, for good or for ill; but now the over-prescribing of potent drugs has become a major source of modern disease.

James Bacon's Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — No pun intended, but the new king of Las Vegas is a Prinze — as in Freddie. He's been the talk of the town ever since his Caesars Palace stand which caused Sinatra-like lines at the hotel. Proof positive that the 20-year-old "Hungarican" has arrived is the fact that most, if not all, of the other hotels were bidding for his next stand up there while he was still at Caesars.

While in town starring in the CBS special on blacklisting to be seen this fall, Fear on Trial, George C. Scott did a little Broadway moonlighting, too. He attempted to lure a couple of well-known actors back to the stage in his upcoming 25th-anniversary production of Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman at the Circle in the Square Theater. Other than returning to the mother art in an American classic by the Jewish Shakespeare, Scott's selling point was that it is in for only a six-week run which wouldn't interfere with more lucrative film assignments.

Lunched with old friend Francis Lederer, who once owned most of Canoga Park before subdivision and learned an amazing thing. Before he bought his famous ranch in the days when Canoga Park only had 1,400 residents (it now has 140,000), Francis almost bought the historic San Fernando Mission.

"People don't know it but it actually was for sale back in the '30s. I was in love with the mission style of architecture and I went in negotiation to buy it." The deal fell through because of one reason or another. Probably, the state intervened in the interest of culture.

"Then I saw a classified ad in the newspaper advertising this ranch way out in the San Fernando Valley. I was living in Beverly Hills at the time and my agent and business manager thought I was crazy to move out so far in the country."

Needless to say there never will be any benefits played for the Czech-born star. He admits one mistake in his fabulous real estate career. "I was once offered the Beverly Hills hotel for $112,000 and turned it down."

Loretta Young and Irene Dunne bought it. Last asking price heard for that hotel was $25 million.

Francis keeps himself busy nowadays teaching acting at the American National Academy of Performing Arts where he is a director.

"I spend four or five days a week there teaching. I even teach children." Nice to hear of a star who invested his money wisely for a change.

Bluegrass festival quiet as a mouse

ATLANTA (UPI) — The "largest bluegrass music festival ever" also was one of the quietest. Disgruntled sound technicians pulled the plug.

The technicians said they hadn't been paid.

Around 5,000 country music fans were awaiting the appearance Sunday night of Earl Scruggs, Bill Monroe and the Nitty Gritty Dirt band when a stagehand announced the concert promoters had "walked off with the gate."

Victorian picked to direct play

Bastion Theatre's artistic director Edwin Stephenson will be directing Dame Peggy Ashcroft and John Neville in Edmonton this October.

He will direct Dame Peggy, one of the first ladies of the British stage, in Jerome Kilty's Dear Liar, a comedy based on the letters of George Bernard Shaw and Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

Stephenson first met Neville, now artistic director of Edmonton's Citadel Theatre, when they appeared together in Mrs. Warren's Profession several summers ago at the National Arts Centre in Ottawa.

Neville went to his Edmonton post last year after five years as artistic director at Nottingham, England.

Stephenson said Friday his Edmonton engagement will allow him to work in new situations that can only benefit Victoria threatre.

He also expects confirmation within the next few weeks that Stratford Festival star William Hutt, will appear in Bastion's production of Present Laughter in January.

It all depends, according to Stephenson, a Stratford alumnus himself on whether Hutt can be spared from rehearsals for next season's festival.

Vancover Arts Club artistic director Bill Millerd will also come to the Bastion to direct Sleuth which ran last season at his Vancouver underground theatre.

Jerry Lewis telethon collects $18.8 million

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Jerry Lewis Labor Day Muscular Dystrophy Telethon Monday collected the largest sum ever raised by a single humanitarian fund-raising event — $18,868,499.

The telethon, shown on 195 stations featured more than 100 celebrities during the entertainment marathon which lasted 21½ hours. Singer Frank Sinatra appeared in three mini-specials during the broadcast which originated at the space centre of the Sahara Hotel on the Las Vegas "Strip" with special feeds from New York.

Lewis, who has staged 10 Labor Day telethons, closed the show by singing, You'll Never Walk Alone.

"I can't believe it, but it's true, this proves something beautiful and powerful for me when we get together here as we've done. We're reaching for the things miracles are made of . . ." Lewis Said.

"I am more sure than ever that we are close to finding a cure for muscular dystrophy."

Lewis has served 25 years as national chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Okay, gang, the kids are back in school. But are we happy? Of course not.

For one thing, summer's over and any true griper knows we didn't have a real summer, anyway, because it didn't last long enough. But far more important, there's television.

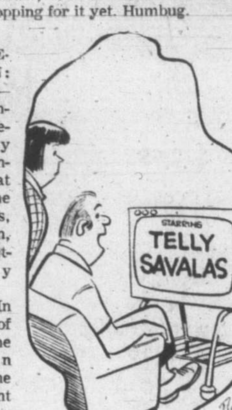

The new shows are starting this week and next, and we all know they're a bunch of losers. Besides, all the good shows were cancelled last spring and there never are any good movies on TV.

So what if we don't have reruns to complain about any more. There's always something to be miserable over. Next thing you know, it'll be Christmas and we haven't even started shopping for it yet. Humbug.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answer — The question was identify the man who became a legendary figure because of an incident April 30, 1900, at a point on a 188-mile line between Memphis, Tennessee, and Clanton, Missouri. He was ill-fated railroader Casey Jones.

Today's question—In the wunnaful world of fairy tales, what was the relationship between Snow White and the queen? Before he went up the beanstalk, how many beans did Jack get in trading his cow? The extremely easy answers Thursday.

"In England they call him TV Savalas."

THE ACES® ON BRIDGE
by IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN

A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. Similarly, a declarer's plan is only as strong as its weakest detail — one small over sight and a slam is lost. Today's slippery slam was reported by Jan Wohlin of Stockholm and demonstrates the cost of small oversights.

The slam was a good one and, on the surface, it appears that declarer should have had an easy time, losing only one trick to the trump king.

However, after winning the diamond ace, declarer could not afford to draw trumps because of the diamond losers and another plan was chosen.

Our first declarer found a reasonable answer. After winning the diamond ace, he ruffed a diamond in dummy and reentered his hand with the spade ace. Declarer's last diamond was ruffed with dummy's ace and declarer had no more diamond losers.

The spade king and another spade allowed declarer to ruff and lead trumps and it appeared the hand was over. However, East was alert and beat the slam. He won the trump king and led a club to place the lead in dummy. Dummy had nothing but clubs and East ruffed the king for the setting trick.

The second declarer adopted the same general plan, but with one added detail. After ruffing both diamonds in dummy and cashing the spade king, one high club was cashed before ruffing a spade and that made the difference. When East won the trump king, East had no clubs and was forced to give declarer the lead. Trumps were drawn and the slam was scored.

But what if East had started with two clubs instead of one? Then both declarers would have made their slams and the precaution of cashing one club would have been an unnecessary detail. And many a slam rides on an "unnecessary detail."

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.
Don't allow the reader to speculate.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily. Monday through Saturday call:

Soccer gates may be locked unless hooliganism curbed

LONDON (AP) — British soccer fans have been officially warned that league games may have to be played behind locked doors in empty stadiums if hooliganism is not brought under control.

As police and railway officials totted up the damaged after a weekend of unprecedented savagery, Alan Hardaker, secretary of the English League said:

"I don't envisage league matches being banned or played behind closed doors in the immediate future, but sooner or later, if something is not done, this will be the ultimate."

Denis Howell, Britain's sports minister, called for full police reports on damage caused by rioting soccer fans Saturday.

Hooligan fans smashed up trains, buses, shops and house windows, and beat up innocent bystanders during rampages to and from soccer stadiums.

One gang of fans stole mail from a train and used it to start a fire in one coach.

A railway official said it was "the worst football Saturday in memory." He estimated the damage at several thousand pounds.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Owner Charles Finley of Oakland A's goes to court this week seeking to regain pitcher Jim Catfish Hunter from New York Yankees.

Lawyer Neil Papiano said Tuesday that the appeal in California Appellate Court will claim an arbitrator overstepped his bounds in declaring Hunter a free agent last year.

"Our appeal will be on two bases," Papiano said. "First, that it would have been illegal for Finley to comply with the request of Hunter and his attorneys for deferred payments because that would have been a fraud on the Internal Revenue Service.

"Secondly, that the arbitrator was specifically forbidden by the contract between the players association and major league baseball to deal with the reserve clause and in fact did just that by declaring Hunter a free agent."

Huge bonus for Games' contractors

MONTREAL (CP) — The two contractors who built the framework part of Olympic Village have received a bonus of $1.38 million each for finishing 184 days ahead of schedule.

In signing their contract for the apartment complex which will house athletes during the 1976 Games, Formco Inc. and Dominic Supports and Forms Ltd. were promised a bonus of $7,500 for each day they were finished before the due date.

Yvan Dubois, Village director-general, said the bonuses were an incentive to stimulate the contractors to greater productivity.

Reduction in passenger service

Alberni joins CPR beef

PORT ALBERNI — The city of Port Alberni has echoed other municipalities' dissatisfaction with reduction in Vancouver island services provided by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The CPR recently announced it was withdrawing the services of its full-time agent in Port Alberni, and the city asked the railway for full details of how the city was to be serviced after his removal.

The CPR's answer, from D. S. Collings, superintendent of passenger services, was submitted to last week's city council meeting.

Collings said customers could phone direct to the Vancouver reservations bureau, reversing the charges, and pick up tickets from the local office of McFarlane Travel Agency. The travel agent could also be engaged for the job, and if necessary, the tickets could be mailed direct from Vancouver.

In the case of the dayliner from Parksville to Victoria, tickets were sold on the train.

The new service, Collings said, would be advertised.

Ald. George McKnight said this was "just another example" of how the CPR was systematically reducing service on the Island which it had been "so handsomely rewarded in real estate alone" to maintain.

"I don't see any sign of the company offering to return any of the very valuable land it was given to service Vancouver Island," McKnight said, "but they seem to have no hesitation in consistently reducing their service," he said.

"It's a disgrace, and I think the government of the province should take a very firm stand with this company."

The Cowichan Region Board planning committee last month wrote the Canadian Transport Commission asking what replacement was planned for removal of agents from nine stations on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway. E and N is a subsidiary of CPR.

BURNABY (CP) — Barry Penman allowed four hits as British Columbia defeated Alberta, 7-1, Monday to win the Western Canada Colt baseball tournament.

B.C., represented by Capilano of North Vancouver, finished the double-knockout, four-day tournament with a 3-0 record. Alberta, represented by Medicine Hat, was second with a 2-2 record. Saskatchewan, represented by Prince Albert, was third with a 1-2 record, host South Burnaby, defeated by Saskatchewan earlier in the tournament, was fourth at 1-2 and Manitoba, represented by Winnipeg, was last.

Blazers quit Bellingham

KELOWNA (CP)—Bellingham Blazers of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League will be known as Maple Ridge Blazers in the 1975-76 season, league president Bryan Couling said Tuesday.

The team, which spent three seasons in Bellingham was forced out of the Washington city's arena when arena owners could not pay their bills, Couling said in an interview.

The Blazers, under the direction of coach Lawrence Gingras again this season, will play their 33 home games in the Haney arena.

Saanich tops boxla rivals

CALGARY — Saanich throttled Calgary Braeside, 22-6, Sunday to win the 'B' division consolation title at the national midget lacrosse championships.

North Burnaby won the first annual tournament by defeating Brampton, Ont. 19-14.

Inquiry set in death of man, 22

NANAIMO—Coroner Dr. Michael Smart said Tuesday an inquiry is to be held into the weekend death of a man in a traffic accident.

Police said Richard White, 22, of 834 Eaton Street, was in collision with a car Saturday afternoon on the Cedar highway, five miles southeast of Nanaimo. Police said he may have been lying on the travelled portion of the highway at the time.

He was taken to Nanaimo hospital where he died less than three hours later.

Police identified the driver of the car as Richard Johnny of Cedar.

The accident was one of two fatalities reported by RCMP during August in this area. The other occurred at the first of the month.

In all, there were 176 accidents during the month, 34 of them involving injuries to 54 persons. Police issued 443 traffic charges.

Nominal $1 fines

Indians file appeal on fishing

Notice of appeal has been filed against the conviction of nine native Indians found guilty May 1 of illegal fishing in the Cowichan River, Doug Sanders, lawyer for the Indians, said Tuesday.

Sanders said he will seek a B.C. Appeal Court interpretation of the federal government's obligations to native people as set out by the terms of union in 1871, when B.C. joined Confederation.

In handing down the judgment May 1, Duncan Provincial Court Judge Lance Heard noted it was a test case of Indian fishing rights and imposed nominal fines of $1 each.

Sanders, at that time, said his clients were prepared to take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada if necessary.

The charges were laid under B.C. regulations in the federal fisheries act after some Indians set up a net across the river to trap spawning salmon. Others used spears for fishing.

A portion of the river running through the Cowichan Indian reserve was closed to fishermen Oct. 21, 1974, owing to an extremely low water level but members of the Cowichan band refused to acknowledge the ban in an attempt to prove their aboriginal fishing rights.

Sanders said no date has been set for the appeal.

Alberni Valley

Address change ahead

PORT ALBERNI—Alberni Valley residents will be advising their friends and relatives of a new address when they send out their Christmas mail this year.

In a $23,000 program, the city of Port Alberni and the Alberni - Clayoquot regional district are undertaking a unified numbering system based on a grid developed for the area from Mount Arrowsmith to the west coast of the island by R. J. Blakely Associates, consulting planners for the region.

The grid starts at zero-zero at its southeast corner and continues in 100 block intervals as far as and including the towns of Tofino and Ucluelet. It is similar to grid systems in use on the Lower Mainland.

It will change virtually every number on every property within the area.

Deadline for completion of the project is Nov. 15, and this will be adhered to as closely as possible, according to city clerk George Wiley "since we have been working very closely since the beginning with both the telephone company and the post office."

Lions pick president

VANCOUVER (CP) — Doug Johnston, secretary of the British Columbia Lions, will replace Bill McEwen as club president, directors of the Canadian Football League club decided Tuesday.

Johnston, a MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., industrial relations executive, was elected president at the director's monthly meeting and lawyer Brian Prentice was elected secretary to replace Johnston.

McEwen resigned the presidency and his directorship Friday when the club announced Jack Parker had been fired as general-manager and Eagle Keys as Head Coach.

A native of Lethbridge, Stasiuk coached Philadelphia Flyers, California Seals and Vancouver Canucks after a 14-year playing career in the NHL.

The Victoria West pair defeated clubmates Fred Sallis and Doug Boyle in the final of the two-day tournament to win the "A" competition.

Strategy topic at IWA today

VANCOUVER (CP) — The coastal IWA negotiating committee meets today to discuss future strategy after its members rejected by a narrow 51.4 per cent terms for settlement of a contract with the British Columbia forest industry.

Sy Thompson, president of the Vancouver IWA local, said Tuesday the negotiating committee "could well decide" to seek further talks with the industry, adding the meeting will cover all possible courses of action open to the union.

"I would imagine the final suggestion would be that we sit down with the employers and figure out where we go from here," Thompson said.

He said he did not think the union will hold another vote on the same recommendations contained in a report by Mr. Justice Henry Hutcheon of the B.C. Supreme Court.

The IWA, which has officially remained on the job after serving strike notice in July, faces the threatened closure of the B.C. forest industry when striking pulp unions go ahead with planned expansion of picket activity today.

Already, 22,000 of the IWA's 35,000 coastal and southern interior members are off the job owing to soft timber markets, economic layoffs resulting from the pulp industry strike and picketing by pulp workers.

Representatives of the Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada and the Canadian Paperworkers Union, with a total membership of 13,000 on strike since July 16, meet today with the B.C. Federation of Labor to discuss picketing plans.

Reg Ginn, PPWC president, already has said the pulp unions will "put everything down (all employers' mills) we possibly can throughout the province" following the meeting.

Jack Munro, regional IWA president, said that with less than 8,000 of 30,000 coastal woodworkers still on the job, "that doesn't leave much left for the pulp unions to picket."

He said that since the coastal membership has rejected the Hutcheon report, the only party that can improve it is the employers."

Spokesmen for the employer groups have said the report represents the final offer on the coast.

Both pulp unions have rejected the report by 84.4 per cent. The southern interior IWA devision has accepted the report but employer groups there have made no decision.

Forest companies in the southern interior were to meet today to discuss Mr. Justice Hutcheon's recommendations which include an industry-wide increase of $1.55 an hour during a two-year term.

Bona fide bingo carries on

The provincial government has extended the deadline on bingo games operated by bona fide social clubs pending clarification of regulations governing such games.

The regulations, passed by the provincial government earlier this year, appeared to limit severely the number of bingo games a social club could organize during a one-year period.

Provincial Secretary Ernest Hall and acting attorney-general David Stupich met with Canadian Legion officials Tuesday to discuss the problem.

Hal said foowing the meeting that games would be permitted beyond the Sept. 1 deadline until the regulations are reviewed and the "finding of a solution satisfactory to the government and the social clubs" is achieved.

Son of cook wins $100,000 house

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 14-month-old Vancouver boy won a $100,000 house and a lot in nearby Coquitlam at the annual draw Monday that concludes the Pacific National Exhibition.

Stephen Lee was the big winner on a ticket purchased by his father, Victor Lee, who now rents a house.

"I'm just happy, it's good for me," said Lee, a cook and father of three.

Detective defuses standoff

A Saanich detective who played a small but key role July 20 as a tense 90-minute standoff ended at UVic Centennia Stadium had the main role Monday in a similar situation which lasted about three hours in a Saanich neighborhood.

Detective Don Russell spent almost all the time on the phone in a home in the Quadra-Tattersal area, talking to a 24-year-old man in a neighboring home who had a .22 calibre rifle and wouldn't let anyone inside.

As in the UVic incident, no one was hurt. The difference was that a man was charged after standing off heavily-armed police at UVic while this time, the 24-year-old man was taken to the Eric Martin Institute for treatment.

Saanich police declined to release names or addresses in the new incident, which for them started at 3:45 p.m. when police received a call that the man had barricaded himself in his home.

Russell and other sources indicated the man was depressed over marital difficulties. He had let his wife leave their home but kept their one-year-old son, who Russell said was never in any danger.

The wife went to the neighbor, who notified police. Officers surrounded the home and Russell then got on the phone.

"It was pretty well non-stop for three hours," said Russell. "He hung up twice but I called right back. He said he'd shoot if anybody came in the house.

"He changed that in the last half hour: I told him his wife was agreeable to mediation . . . I convinced him I should come in, unarmed. I convinced him not to shoot."

The man made no trouble when Russell entered and the detective did not use handcuffs. Two shotguns and a rifle in the home were seized by police.

On July 20 at UVic, the hero's role went to Saanich Inspector Ted Owens, who approached Nanaimo resident Richard Albert Forrest, 22, in the open and unarmed and convinced him he should give up his attempt to force police into shooting him.

As the tense drama ended, Owens got Forrest's agreement to have Russell take Forrest's three guns. The Forrest case ended in Victoria Provincial Court last week with a fine, term of probation, firearms ban and order for continued psychiatric treatment.

Private pilots want control English only

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Owners and Pilots Association announced Tuesday that it supports demands by the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association for air traffic control communication in English only.

Russell Beach, president of the association, said his association, which represents 10,000 pilots, including private licence holders, believed that air control communication should be in English alone to ensure safety.

But he said French should be allowed anywhere in Canada for advisory communication such as weather information.

The airline pilots' association has announced plans to halt all flight operations for 24 hours Oct. 17 unless the government ends experiments in bilingual traffic control.

And Jim Livingston, president of the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, has said that pilots who speak French only should be limited to areas where the government is testing bilingual air traffic control.

He said the air controllers might strike in support of the airline pilots if the government did not limit the licences of unilingual French-speaking pilots.

Some Quebec controllers say bilingualism has not created a safety hazard.

Transport Minister Jean Marchand was to have met airline pilots last week to discuss the issue, but the meeting was cancelled.

Another hospital mystery

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — Officials at the Veterans Administration Hospital here said Tuesday that another patient — the 11th in a baffling series — had died of respiratory failure.

Medical sources said the death of Robert Antil, 41, an unemployed Detroit steelworker, was considered "most suspicious." He was stricken Aug. 4.

The FBI refused comment Tuesday night on the latest in a series of more than 50 breathing failures that began July 1 and ended Aug. 15, the day FBI agents launched their probe.

Fugitive caught after gun battle

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Although they had accused killer and jailbreaker Donald Kelly back in custody, police were no closer Tuesday to knowing why he led them on a 31-day chase through the northern bush country.

"I don't know what was going through his mind," said Det.-Insp. W. C. Craig of the provincial police. "Normally an escaper tries to leave the area. He stayed."

Kelly, who escaped from North Bay district jail Aug. 2 while being held on a double-murder charge, was captured Monday evening in a hunting cabin about 15 miles northeast of here.

He was taken without resistance following a gun battle.

During the early shooting, a provincial police tracking dog was killed and Kelly, 36, was seriously wounded. He stumbled off into dense bush. The dog's handler and another policeman retreated and called in reinforcements.

About 150 officers were ordered to the scene. Police surrounded the cabin, lobbed in tear gas and found Kelly wrapped in a blanket and lying on the floor.

Kelly remained in serious condition Tuesday in Sudbury General Hospital with a bullet-shattered right arm and buckshot wounds to the left chest and back. He was expected to be there for two weeks.

WHY MEN WON'T SEEK HELP

Many men won't admit they have a problem. They're trapped — in jobs they don't like, or in cold, empty marriages, losing contact with their children. Most men are too proud of their masculinity to admit failure. But in expecting men to always be strong, and never show the weaknesses that all of us possess, we put a terrible burden on them. Learn how you can lessen that burden — and help someone who is endangering his emotional and mental health. Read WHY MEN WON'T SEEK HELP.
